Glenwood McKelvey, deputy sheriff, has been caught with a case of flu, so he tells me there is more room to lose his complaint around Palm Springs than orange groves. He left yesterday for the desert, where the rays, both ultra-violet and infra-red, will have a chance to do some physical housecleaning.

Two Cincinnati psychologists assert that many "ane" are crazy, and some inmates of asylums could change places with those on the outside. Which recalls a statement made to me better than half a century ago by a brilliant attorney, who said the time would come when the people who had good sense would have to go to an insane asylum for protection. I sometimes think we have arrived.

If there was any good thing about the Panay incident it was the distance. I've seen the pictures.

Met acquaintance yesterday who said he had two New Year resolutions in contemplation. He must have heard something about "cause and effect," so he stopped with the contemplative.

Beaming with pleasure Santa Ana displays check for $136 dividend from an oil investment made when you and I were young, Maggie, and which at the present rate of income will return the original investment sometime so far removed final payments will go to some other postoffice than the local.

When legislators or others in authority cannot think of anything else they devise more ways to collect taxes, and every mother's son of them was elected on a tax economy platform. What brought the matter to my attention was a few hundred "kiddies" in the alley back of the police station turning in 50 cents per bicycle for a license plate. Made me think of Attorney Tom McFadden's campaign platform for "lower taxes and fewer laws." He was defeated, which might cause one to infer that the people wanted more taxes and more laws.

Santa Ana man answering an inquiry as to the best way to go to the Pasadena Tournament of Roses said to take your lunch and overcoat along with you, and then that wouldn't be enough. If the weather doesn't moderate I would not want to be a bathing beauty in that event. It is lovely to see but not so lovely to be a part of. Several hours to pass a given point requires a lot of patience, but then consider how long it takes to prepare for it. It still remains an event of ever increasing interest and beauty.

And then there was the fellow who returned a cap because it was too much material for the money.

Another exchange: Customer turns back an article somewhat the worse for wear, and the merchant accommodated when in reality he wanted to return an uppercut instead of a garment—the request was so unreasonable. Another one of those cases where the customer is always right even when he is wrong. For of such is the patience of merchandising.

The railing for the postoffice steps was installed yesterday, and believe it or not some of it is brass.

And, said Frank Fairley to a good friend, I hope you have a turkey for Christmas, and if you don't have a turkey I hope you have a goose, and if you don't have a goose I hope you have a chicken, and if you don't have a chicken I hope you have some hamburger. That's staying with a friend until the last dog's dead.

Unofficially informed that the New Year resolution for the Rotary club will be to make no effort.

Strikes Spreading Over France

Miners Walk Out In New Crisis As Paris Threat Ends

Japan's Suicide Rate Drop Is Laid to Warfare

TOKYO. (AP)—For the first time in years, Japan has a decline in the suicide rate, and the official report attributes it to the spirit attending Chinese-Japanese warfare.

The 1937 suicide total was 380 less than the 2681 recorded last year. Double love suicides dropped from 139 to 96.

Although warfare was credited with decreasing the suicide rate, it was likewise held responsible for many persons taking their own lives, particularly wives and mothers who wished to free their husbands and sons at the front from anxiety over dependents.

PARIS. (AP)—A new outbreak of strikes in the rich mining region of Northern France intensified the turbulent labor situation today after firm government action brought quick settlement of the critical public service tie up in Paris.

A thousand coal miners at Anzin, near Valenciennes, quit work this morning in protest against discharge of three miners.

This stoppage aroused official concern lest the strike spread among all of the 16,000 miners employed by the Anzin company. Local government officials sought to negotiate a settlement.

Premier Camille Chautemps' threat to call striking public service workers, most of whom are army reservists, to the colors, caused prompt submission to his demands for settlement of the Paris strike, which threatened to undermine the people's front government.

JAP PLANES BOMB ACTION

U. S. Refugees Flee Stricken Tsingtao

HONGKONG. (AP)—Thirty Japanese airplanes bombed Canton today in the heaviest raid in recent weeks.

Chinese reports said the bombers attacked railways and the northwest district of the city where many factories, schools and residences are located.

Some 20 buildings were destroyed, including the Wahnei school, a commercial college and a girl's school.

Officials placed the death toll at 35, including five children.

DEFENDERS RESISTING TSINGTAO ATTACKERS

SHANGHAI. (AP)—Japanese armies met stiff Chinese resistance today on Shantung province fronts outside Tsingtao, the dynamite-rocked North China seaport from which a number of Americans were in flight.

Sunshine Is Promised for Rose Bowl Game

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Fair weather for the Rose Bowl football game between Alabama and California Saturday was promised today.

"I'm extending the forecast 24 hours farther ahead than usual," said L. H. Daingerfield, meteorologist, "because I know everybody is so interested in what the weather will be like New Year's Day."

He said a high pressure area should keep the current storm in the Northwest from spreading this far south.

Pacific Mutual Heads Indicted

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The first of 15 former officials of the old Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company were expected to surrender here today on a mail fraud conspiracy indictment.

The defendants and their recommended bonds included: George I. Cochran, E. C. Moore, Lee A. Phillips and Ben R. Meyer, $25,000; Alfred G. Hann, $10,000 and Stanley F. McClung, $5000.

The indictment was returned by the Phoenix, Ariz., federal grand jury and court appearances will be made there later.

Premier Camille Chautemps' threat to call striking public service workers, most of whom are army reservists, to the colors, caused prompt submission to his demands for settlement of the Paris strike, which threatened to undermine the people's front government.

Minister of Labor Andre Fevrier was trying to negotiate the other Paris strikes, affecting food trucks, warehouses and the Goodrich Rubber company plant.

Six hundred sailors at Rouen, whose recent walkout tied up 35 ships, continued on strike.

The agreement to call off the Paris public service strike came in the early hours after labor delegates had shut down back and forth between their own meetings and government offices throughout the night.

RETURN TO WORK

The strikers, 120,000 strong, were notified to return to their jobs on after daybreak.

The city's 12 Sunday lines and all bus lines started carrying passengers again at 6 a. m.

The settlement of the strike when it had been in effect less than 24 hours was hailed in political circles as a triumph for the radical-socialist premier of the people's front regime, whose threat to mobilize the workers as members of the French army was credited with breaking the workers' resistance.

Under the government's threat the strikers themselves would have become strikebreakers—called out as army reserves, sent back to the same municipal jobs from which they had walked out and ordered to maintain transportation, water, gas and light supplies as well as other services they had crippled or halted.

Most of the strikers are reservists.

Shortly before the compromise was reached the ministries of interior and war were finishing touches to preparations for the drastic mobilization.

The compromise gave the protesting municipal workers a 70 francs a month ($2.31) living allowance to meet increased living costs.

SIX DEAD IN OREGON STORM

SEATTLE. (AP)—Gale warnings flew along the Oregon and Washington coasts again today after four days of unremitting storms claimed six lives and caused untold property damage in the Pacific Northwest.

The half dozen deaths were attributed directly to gales, heavy rains, snows and attendant floods and slides. They did not include numerous traffic accidents.

While no official estimate was made of damage over the entire Pacific Northwest, British Columbia authorities estimated the storm would cost the province between $200,000 and $400,000, largely in wages for road maintenance crews.

The weather bureau predicted Oregon's Willamette river would reach flood stage at Salem and Albany today.

HOTEL MAN SHOT ABOARD LOST BOAT

Coast Guard Saves Six From Starving

SAN PEDRO. (AP)—Through fog-shrouded seas off the Mexican coast, the coast guard patrol boat, Perseus beat a course to port today, concealing in official silence the story of the mysterious shooting of a wealthy Santa Barbara yacht owner on a disastrous pleasure cruise.

Not until some time after midnight, when the Perseus is expected to put in here with the derelict, 58-foot schooner Aafje in tow, may the circumstances be told of Owner Dwight L. Faulding's death on the high seas.

His body, bullet-pierced, lay on the Aafje's deck yesterday as the Perseus, answering radio messages for aid from coast guard amphibious planes, found the yacht (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

VETERAN U. P. ENGINEER QUILTS

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Walter G. Houston, who began throttling a work engine 36 years ago, retired today as senior engineer of the Union Pacific.

With plans already made to settle down on a 40-acre citrus ranch at Fallbrook, Houston brought his line's Los Angeles Limited here on his final run yesterday.

In the 36 years since he started engineering he never took a day off except for annual vacations.

SHORTAGE OF M.D.'S REPORTED

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The agricultural department said today the physical wellbeing of rural America was endangered by a serious shortage of small town doctors and hospitals.

In a number of states, a survey showed, there is only one doctor for every 1000 to 1500 persons. The more populous states have a doctor for as few as 500 persons.

The rural shortage was attributed to a lack of medical equipment and facilities, and to the somewhat higher income and social advantages of the cities.

School Babes Are Proud Parents

LINTON, Ind. (AP)—The case of a 12-year-old girl and a 13-year-old boy, the unmarried parents of a 10½-pound baby boy born Tuesday, was before Circuit Judge J. Raymond Powell today.

The boy, Thomas H. Chapman, was charged by the girl's parents with being the father of the baby. After hearing evidence, Judge Powell took the case under advisement.

The boy-father, large for his age, admitted in court he was the father of the baby and added: "All I want is a chance to marry Betty June" (the mother). The girl-mother—blue-eyed Betty June Lacer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lacer—and the boy-father started school in the first grade together and were graduated from the eighth grade last spring. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chapman, parents of Thomas, and the Lacers have been close friends for years.

The case provided a peculiar legal problem, court attaches pointed out. Indiana statutes prevent the issuance of a marriage license to the young couple, even with the consent of the parents.

The baby, born at the home of Betty June's parents, was named Thomas Howard.

She Smiles Here, But . . . !

Barbara Stanwyck was in no smiling mood in court when she opposed Frank Fay's petition for temporary custody of their adopted child. She says Frank swore in the child's presence.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Barbara Stanwyck, movie actress and divorced wife of Frank Fay, opposes his petition for temporary custody of their five-year-old adopted son, Dion, because, she says, Fay has used profane language in the child's presence.

Miss Stanwyck testified in superior court that Fay once struck her on the chin, knocking her over a chair, because he objected to her attendance at a burlesque show.

The actress said Fay's cigarette once set fire to a rug near their child's crib, and that the last time Dion visited Fay he came home ill and was in bed for two days.

Fay has asked the court to fix specific times for him to visit the boy. He contends that his former wife has refused him that right many times.

Fay, on the stand, denied charges of Miss Stanwyck that he opposed adoption of the boy.

H. B. HOLDUP HITS AGAIN

Held up at the point of a gun and ordered to hand over the $9 he had in his pocket, V. B. Walker, Huntington Beach oilworker, last night became the second robbery victim in the oil city in a week.

Huntington Beach and county authorities today were searching for a "medium-sized dark man" who made a getaway after the holdup in a car driven by a confederate.

It was just a week ago that an armed bandit held up Grover Pounds, laboratory worker, and escaped with $125 in cash.

Walker told police he was at work on the Abstract Oil company's high school lease on Mansion street when the bandit brandished a large caliber revolver, took his money and fled.

The two robberies probably were committed by different men, police indicated.

BOARD GETS CURT REBUFF

A terse rebuff from Presiding Superior Judge James L. Allen today ended an abortive attempt by county supervisors to have Judge H. G. Ames replaced as judge of the juvenile court.

In a 74-word letter Judge Allen answered and refused the supervisors' request, passed by four board members on motion of Supervisor John Mitchell Tuesday after the board repeatedly had tangled with Judge Ames and the probation committee over administration of the juvenile home, operated by the committee.

Judge Ames maintained his silence on the matter.

Tuesday's motion asked Presiding Judge Allen "in view of the very unsatisfactory administration of the juvenile home under the present authority," that Judge Ames be replaced as juvenile judge. Authorities pointed out later that Judge Ames had no control over the home except appointment of the committee and approval of employees.

Closing the teapot tempest today, Judge Allen wrote: "Board of Supervisors of 'Orange County, California, 'Santa Ana, California. 'Gentlemen:

"Mr. B. J. Smith, clerk of the board of supervisors, has just handed me a certified copy of the motion passed at the meeting of your board on Dec. 28, 1937. In reply thereto will state that I was appointed presiding judge on Dec. 15, 1937, and the assignment for the work of the court for the ensuing year was made on Dec. 20, 1937. I see no reason why any change should be made.

"Very truly yours,
"JAMES L. ALLEN,
"Presiding Judge."

Clerk Gets Life In Love Slaying

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Worth Clements, 38, former Atlanta clerk, confessed he came from Georgia two months ago to marry his sweetheart, then killed her.

Today he was under sentence of life imprisonment for the first-degree murder of 25-year-old Lucille Register Campbell.

Clements, 38, pleaded guilty in the hope of winning a lesser punishment. Still suffering from self-inflicted bullet wounds, he told the court his mind was blank when he shot Mrs. Campbell after she told him she no longer loved him.

Unknown to Clements at the time was the fact that she had married another man two days earlier.

TICKET FOR LORETTA

OXNARD. (AP)—Loretta Young of the movies will have to answer to a charge of speeding in justice court next month. She was ticketed yesterday by Officer Joe Nobel, who said she was doing 74 miles on a 45-mile highway.

NO MAIL DELIVERY

There will be no city or rural delivery of mail here Saturday, according to Postmaster Frank Harwood. Postoffice boxholders, however, will receive their usual service and all outgoing mail will be handled on regular schedule.

FDR ATTACK ON BUSINESS CONTINUES

Congress Message Eagerly Awaited

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Arrangements have been completed for President Roosevelt to deliver his message to congress Monday at 1:30 p. m., before a joint session of the two houses. It will be broadcast.

The continuity of the attack left little doubt that it was a pre-arranged staging for the address, in which the chief executive generally is expected to outline his program for meeting the business recession.

JACKSON ATTACKS

Speaking in Philadelphia yesterday, Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson charged business with "a general strike" designed to "liquidate the New Deal." Tonight over a national radio hookup (NBC at 9 p. m. EST.), Secretary Ickes will carry on in similar vein under the title, "It Is Happening Here."

Members of congress showed conflicting reactions to the Jackson speech, but they generally interpreted it as a reflection of the current administration attitude which the President will expound next Monday.

To emphasize the importance of his annual message, Mr. Roosevelt has announced he would deliver it in person. He will speak again Saturday, Jan. 8, at the Democratic Jackson Day dinner.

Congratulate FDR

Great significance has been attached by administration observers to the tone of recent administration speeches. They followed a period of apparent indecision over future policies in view of the business situation.

Spokesmen for "left wing" administration followers were beginning to express the belief that the President was yielding to business demands. Conservative elements in the Democratic party had started to congratulate Mr. Roosevelt for showing a more friendly attitude toward industry.

It was Jackson who started the ball rolling in the other direction Sunday night in a speech blaming monopolistic "profiteering" for high prices and the current business slump.

STAGGERING TOTAL SHOWN BY CENSUS

Unemployed List Double Forecast

No check on the extent of unemployment in Orange county, as revealed by the recent jobless census, was obtainable today, as authorities declined to release figures obtained.

Special reports from Washington to The Journal, however, indicated that release of the figures will show a total unemployment in the U. S. of 10,500,000 to 11,000,000.

These figures will be made public next week, it was learned today, when facts obtained in the recent unemployment census are released. They far exceed anything expected by those in charge of the gigantic job.

Earlier predictions had indicated a total of not more than 5,000,000 unemployed, including both full and partially jobless.

The census, however, does not include recent unemployment. Figures released by the WPA and bureau of labor statistics indicate the number of jobs lost since Nov. 20 at around 1,000,000.

WPA relief employment rolls increased 30,626 in the week ended Dec. 18, records disclosed, raising the total of relief workers to 1,588,315.

In Santa Ana the national unemployment service announced there were 5800 names on its files as of today. Of these 2108 are registered on WPA rolls. Supervisor Dan Mulholland said.

Postal authorities declined to release local figures obtained by the unemployment census until next week, date for release nationally.

JAPAN SENDS SECOND 'UNSATISFACTORY' APOLOGY TO ENGLAND

BRITAIN MAY ACT AGAIN ON ATTACK

Army Version of Raid Also Turned Down

LONDON. (AP)—Japan, in a note to Britain made public today, declared Japanese attacks on the gunboat Ladybird and other British ships in China waters were a mistake. But to insure against further incidents Japan has dealt properly with responsible military and naval officers on the ground that they failed to take full precautions. Explanation of the attacks in today's note followed closely the Japanese army version which the British government yesterday decided was not acceptable. The army version was that Japanese troops did not know the gunboats Ladybird and Bee were British when they were attacked. The army version inferred also a contention that the British ships had no right to be in the war zone. There was some belief today that the note from the Japanese foreign office likewise would be held unsatisfactory, and that further British representations would be made. New orders have been given to Japanese forces, the note said, for the greatest possible care that attacks shall not be made upon the lives and property of British or other nationals.

SIMILAR NOTE The note was similar in content to the Japanese explanation of bombing by Japanese planes of the American gunboat Panay and three Standard Oil vessels. The British foreign office replied to British protests against such incidents, without any comment to indicate whether it was satisfactory. Of the British request for punishment of those responsible, the Japanese note said that the government:

"In order to insure against the possibility of similar mistakes, have dealt properly according to law with the commanding and other military officers concerned, and will the commanding and other naval officers of the air squadrons responsible, on the ground they failed to take full precautions. The disciplinary action was not detailed."

SEAMAN KILLED A British seaman was killed and two wounded Dec. 13 when the Ladybird was shelled at Wuhu. Four foreigners were injured fatally in bombing of the American Panay and the standard Oil vessels, Dec. 12. The British gunboat Bee also was attacked. The Japanese referred to thick fog or haze on the Yangtze river making visibility poor, and said army and naval units concerned had taken it for granted that only enemy vessels were in the vicinity. The note adds that "there is no room for doubt but that they did not intentionally attack the vessels knowing them to be British."

KING FAROUK OUSTS PREMIER

CAIRO. (AP)—Egypt was plunged today into the greatest political crisis of young King Farouk's 20-month reign when he dismissed Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha and appointed Mohamed Mahmoud to form a new government. Mahmoud, 55 years old, Oxford educated and premier in 1928 and 1929, immediately started drafting a new cabinet, then decided to dissolve parliament and hold elections within two months. The long feud between the palace and the government of the Wafdist (nationalist) premier already had resulted in a strike of 10,000 government railway workers in Cairo. Police were on the alert to forestall threatened disorders.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Government promises to enlarge the navy strength. Well, that's shooting at something.

Service club with magnanimous spirit starts the New Year with cancellation of all delinquent dues. Now that seems to me to fit in with the spirit of the season. I'm not personally concerned in this particularly generous movement, but if they ever start to remit the dues I'll try and get in line and well forward.

Representative Snell of New York, after mature deliberation, says there were three highlights of the special congressional session: "1. President Roosevelt's fishing trip off the Florida coast. 2. Vice President Garner's hunting trip in Pennsylvania. 3. A potato eating contest to judge the relative merits of Idaho and Maine spuds." Now may I ask you, is that nice?

They'll do it every time. Elderly lady diagonalizes (Websterianly unapproved) the intersection. Face slow and deliberate. Safety entirely at the mercy of the automobilist. And then I see younger people short-cutting and peeking around parked cars to see if the right of way is clear. We have the jay-walker—all ages.

LADIES' NIGHT Members of the Builders' Exchange are planning for their annual ladies' night at the Orange American Legion hall to be held Jan. 11. Committees in charge of the event will be named later.

PLAN SET-UP FOR CIVIL SERVICE

Santa Ana's Civil Service system will probably be patterned after those in operation at Long Beach, Santa Monica, Alhambra and Huntington Park. This became evident today when it was learned the local commission intends to visit these communities after the first of the year, possibly next Tuesday, in a fact-finding capacity to learn how the service in those cities operates.

George Parker, president of the local board, said the commission is open to suggestion and is to visit various communities having civil service in Southern California to gain helpful advice for Santa Ana. Among the immediate problems facing the board here is the selection of an experienced chief examiner who will doubtless be chosen from some community with civil service. After the chief examiner is named by the board he will automatically serve as clerk, taking over the duties of Commissioner Phil Brown as acting clerk of the body.

The commissioners met yesterday afternoon in the city hall with committees from the police and fire departments to get acquainted and discuss current problems. The men representing the fire department were John Garthe, W. C. Fox and Dave H. Smith; policemen were Asst. Chief Harry Pink, Lieut. B. A. Hershey and Wm. H. Heard.

SEEK MYSTERY PURSE SEINER

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Search was under way today in Southern California waters by coast guard cutters for a Japanese-owned purse seiner that federal officials say escaped from Los Angeles harbor without paying customs duties.

The boat, the Three Star, recently built at North Bend Ore., at a cost of $45,000, was said by Benjamin Harrison, United States attorney, to have slipped into the harbor, re-fueled and fled before federal authorities could seize her for evasion of custom. Harrison disclosed that for two years the federal authorities have been inquiring into ownership of Japanese vessels flying the United States flag.

SIT STRIKERS PLAN APPEAL

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Plans for an appeal to a higher court were drawn today by attorneys for 22 men, convicted of conspiring to detain the Douglas Aircraft factory in a sit-down strike last February.

Denying a new trial, Superior Judge Thomas L. Ambrose imposed fines ranging from $150 to $600 yesterday. William Busick and Andrew Schmoeller, CIO organizers, were fined $600 each. Eight men were fined $300 each, and 12, $150, the total being $5400. Judge Ambrose referred to the jury's verdict as a condemnation of the sit-down strike. The verdict condemned leniency to the convicted men.

Wells Used to Record Quakes

SALT LAKE CITY. (AP)—Subterranean wells of this vicinity do "the big apple" everytime there's an earthquake on the North American continent, City Water Department Engineer J. A. Ward revealed today. Each time mother earth gets abdominal pains and has convulsions, Ward usually knows about it a few minutes afterward. He's found an earthquake recording method which he claims is as accurate as seismographs—a cheap but infallible substitute, he claims. Float recorders, attached to graphs, show every geological disturbance on the continent, Ward says and displays charts to prove it.

TERROR OF PANAY TOLD IN FILMS

By WILLIAM S. WHITE NEW YORK. (AP)—The photographic story of the sinking of the U. S. S. Panay by Japanese bombs—a story of gallantly futile resistance before the Stars and Stripes sank with the stricken warcraft in the slow waters of the Yangtze—was put before the American public today.

It had a preview last night before a small group of picture executives and reporters, in a Fort Lee, New Jersey, laboratory. In a dispassionate monotone, Newsreel cameraman Norman Alley explained his extraordinary pictorial record of a 20-minute incident across the world.

AIRPLANES DIVE Here is the story: The Panay, her flag folding out smartly, pulls away from Nanjing. Two Japanese airplanes are seen far aloft; one seems to be diving toward the Panay.

"Here it is; here's the business," Alley mutters. There is a quick cutback to the deck; seamen pop out one by one from the hold to race forward.

"(That's where the emergency alarm was heard," says Alley). Men jump to the Panay's iron shielded machine guns, grimacing, squinting. "THAT'S THE END" Over astern—it looked less than 50 yards—a bomb drops, and the Yangtze throws up a great burst of water.

Next, fatally hit, the Panay one of her decks partially awash. The lifeboats go over the side; the men mostly are wearing life preservers, but one is seen to throw a grating overboard and jump after it. "That's the end," says Alley, to the extraordinary stillness of the projection room. Next, little boats are seen turning toward the bamboo-covered marshlands of the river bank. The wounded and the unhurt appear to scramble in fear beneath the bamboo.

PANAY SINKS Lt. Comdr. Hughes, badly hit, smiles crookedly from his stretcher. Quartermaster John Lang, a bandage laid across the gaping wound in his face, strains forward, as if to throw off a great burden.

There begins a 60-mile march through the badlands, coolies carrying the stretchers of the wounded and the dead. Back on the river bank, a little group of injured seamen stand facing the wallowing Panay. For a minute, she settles almost imperceptibly. Then, she turns gently forward and sinks.

STRAUS SEEKS SLUM LAWS

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing authority, said today he would ask 18 states to enact slum housing legislation either in special or regular legislative sessions. Straus said his appeal was prompted by pressure from congressional and other sources to speed up operations of the United States Housing authority.

The 18 states are Arizona, California, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Maine, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah, Virginia, Washington and Wyoming.

Ward usually knows about it a few minutes afterward. He's found an earthquake recording method which he claims is as accurate as seismographs—a cheap but infallible substitute, he claims. Float recorders, attached to graphs, show every geological disturbance on the continent, Ward says and displays charts to prove it.

INVESTIGATE YACHT DEATH

floundering helplessly 190 miles to the southwest. SIX ABOARD BOAT Aboard the Aafje, without food and water for three days, were six persons, one an expectant mother, who had sailed with Faulding Dec. 20 on what was to have been a two-day excursion to Santa Catalina island.

An "S O S" scrawled on a sail, led to the rescue. A navy patrol plane, sighting it, flew closer and discovered the schooner's plight. As terse messages flashed to naval and coast guard bases here and at San Diego, the case of Faulding's shooting was turned over to the department of justice. A special agent, W. H. Osborne, was ordered to board the cutter 442 and intercept the Aafje at sea.

Unanswered were questions on how Faulding met death. The survivors were reported to have endured their privation without serious effects. AAFJE BATTERED The Aafje, apparently battered by a storm, had lost her main-sail and her auxiliary engine was idle, lacking fuel. The list of rescued announced by the coast guard was: Mrs. Gertrude Turner, and her 8-year-old son, Robert Tufo, of Dos Pueblos rancho, Goleta, Cal. Mrs. Jack Morgan, expectant mother, Los Angeles, and her registered nurse, Miss Elsie Berdan. Robert Horne, 28, West Los Angeles photographer. 'MORGAN' MISSING Faulding, it was learned here, made arrangements for the trip with a man who identified himself as Jack Morgan, naval reserve ensign, who wanted to charter a boat. No mention of "Jack Morgan" was made in the coast guard's list of passengers, although unverified advices said he had been aboard when the naval flier first discovered the disabled yacht. Society circles in Los Angeles recently linked romantically the names of Faulding and Mrs. Turner. For five months, he had been living here on the Aafje, once owned by the late Cliff Durant.

His estranged wife, the former Etta Burnett, operates a camera shop in Santa Barbara which she received in their financial settlement two years ago. He sued for divorce, but did not obtain a decree.

Police End Child Honeymoon HUNTINGTON, Tenn. (AP)—The honeymoon of 13-year-old Ida Bell Thomas ended abruptly today when Tennessee's new "child bride" law was invoked to jail her husband-for-a-day. Magistrate Manuel McCormick said 22-year-old Garfield Taylor was held for the grand jury on a charge of fraudulently obtaining a marriage license, and that George Campbell, 30-year-old friend of the bridegroom, was held on a charge of falsely attesting the girl was over 18. Small, dark haired Ida Bell, whose mother told McCormick in seeking warrants for the two men, that her daughter was but 13, was back today in her home near this middle Tennessee town.

JAPS STAGE AIR RAIDS ON CANTON

REFUGEES LAND The United States gunboat Sacramento docked in Shanghai and disembarked first American civilian refugees from the threatened port 400 miles to the north. Twenty-five Americans, with a number of nurses and dependents, made the trip. Another contingent of American Tsingtao refugees headed for Shanghai on the steamer Shuntien. The United States cruiser Marblehead and destroyer Pope stood ready to evacuate remaining Americans.

FLEE FROM WARFARE Still more Americans fled from the spreading warfare deep in China's interior. A flag-decked refugee train left Hankow for Hongkong with 313 Americans and other foreigners under Japanese assurance of safe passage over the frequently bombarded route.

Even though resistance delayed the Japanese advance on Tsingtao, Chinese apparently were resigned to loss of the city. They spread destruction with dynamite and flames to leave for the war machine engaged in swallowing five North China provinces only "scorched earth... broken tile."

CHINESE CONTINUE DESTRUCTION PLAN TSINGTAO, China. (AP)—More than a score of explosions rocked Tsingtao this afternoon, spreading property damage which Chinese started last night. A large shipyard at the entrance of the inner harbor was destroyed. Office buildings alongside the useless Japanese drydock and workshops and warehouses across the harbor were burning.

Art Colony May Hide Behind Stockade CARMEL, Calif. (AP)—This art colony is discussing the building of a stockade around the town and charging admission. The plan has been put forth not as a revenue measure but as one to keep out "undesirable tourists."

The sponsors also want the mayor and council to wear Windsor ties. It already costs a toll to enter Pebble Beach, Carmel's swanky neighbor to the north.

Boyish Orson Welles, 22, is regarded as a prodigy. He directs a modernized "Julius Caesar," now on Broadway, and also plays "Brutus" in the show.

Herndon Estate Totals $3000

Miss Louise Pointer Herndon, who died in Fullerton Dec. 18, left an estate valued at $3000, according to a petition for probate of her will filed today in the county clerk's office.

The estate consists of a five-room house and lot at 517 West Wilshire, Fullerton, according to the petition by Mrs. Mabel Herndon Johnson, her sister, who is named sole heir.

ITALY-JAPAN PACT SIGNED

ROME. (AP)—Political and economic relations of Italy and Japan were more firmly knitted today by signing of an accord calling for trade agreements between Japan and Italian East Africa.

In Tokyo, a foreign office spokesman said the agreement is supplementary to the commercial pact between the two countries, and applied to Ethiopia and all other Italian colonies. It is to run for three years and be renewable yearly thereafter.

It was signed by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and Japanese Ambassador Masaki Hotta.

"Another feature of the accord," the Japanese foreign office said, "is that Italy agrees to recognize, as an exception for treatment under the most favored nation clause, whatever preference Japan may accord Manchoukuo in the matter of customs duties."

The accord was described in Japanese circles as "very important." Such an agreement was foreseen when Italy, Japan and Germany signed an anti-Communism agreement.

BOAT TOSSED IN AIR MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Horse Dodge's hydroplane, Delphine IX was damaged today when it was hurled into the air by the wake from a launch which crossed its path during a speed run.

The 4300-pound speed boat jumped some six feet into the air and landed heavily. Dodge and his mechanic, Ed McKenzie, were severely shaken.

MEXICAN FIELD WORKERS LOSE FIGHT FOR PAY RAISE

BOARD KEEPS WAGE SCALE UNCHANGED

Present Arrangement Continued 6 Months

More than 3500 Orange county field laborers lost their fight for another pay raise today.

Present wages in the Orange county vegetables industry will continue at the same level for another six months, under a decision of the county arbitration board.

After an all-day session at his Los Angeles office, Chairman Tom Barker, deputy state industrial relations commissioner, said the present scale of 30 cents an hour will continue until June 30, 1938, but workers or employers may apply for a change if an unusual condition develops.

The Mexican Agricultural Workers' union had asked for a scale of 30 to 37 cents, and the Southern California Farm federation had sought a return to last year's level of 25 cents. A raise to 30 cents had been secured last June.

The arbitration board had been set up as the result of wide-spread labor trouble from six months to a year ago, under a decision of the state labor commissioner requiring remission of agreements every six months.

Representing the growers on the board was Ted Blanding. Harry D. Zimmer was the growers' representative.

The board's decision yesterday is expected to set the policy for decisions affecting 8000 workers, mostly Mexican, and about 2000 growers throughout Southern California, as representatives from other counties continue deliberations.

Other officers named were Charles E. Bressler, from the contracting firm of Wells and Bressler, first vice-president; Ray Taylor, an official in the local office of the Southern California Edison company, second vice-president, and William J. Tway of the Santa Ana Lumber company, treasurer.

BEEF GOES FOR BRAIN TEST

Headwork Against Headlock
NEW YORK, (P)—The spelling bee of this or any other century you care to mention is going to be sprayed over the nation's airways on the night of Jan. 5 from Madame Bey's little red schoolhouse near Summit, N. J.

The principals, respectively, will be five boxers of no specified weight and an equal number of wrestlers, and they're going to spell it out to a finish while the country listens. This harrowing exhibition of mental gymnastics is regarded in the nature of a showdown between two sterling groups of athletes.

Mushky Jackson, known far and wide as a man who can give the English language a licking on any occasion, has been chosen captain and inspirational leader of the boxers. He's picking his team now.

Tentatively selected already are Tommy Farr, Henry Armstrong, Nathan Mann and Frankie Blair. Every last one of them, Mushky has assured the broadcasting folks, possesses at least a swell high school education.

Over-confidence might be the wrestlers' worst enemy, however Ray Fabiani, mat czar of New York and its environs, regards the result as a foregone conclusion if the thing's on the up-and-up. "Why, it's going to be ludicrous, matching these boys of mine against those resin-monks," said the former concert violinist as he enjoyed a fat after-dinner cigar.

"Half those boxers couldn't spell beer. I can put a full team of college graduates in there if I want to. "I'll just wait and pick up whatever wrestlers are around. They won't need any training. Can you imagine telling guys like Brooko Nagurski, Jim McMillin, Dean Detton, Gus Sonnenberg or Vincent Lopez how to spell? Every one of them finished some university and Lopez was an accountant before he entered the ring."

Only one stipulation Fabiani makes, and that is that the man who gives out the words be an educated, smart Johnny, himself. He was under the misapprehension for a time that Mushky Jackson would give the words.

"My boys wouldn't stand a chance with Mushky in there," he complained. "What, for instance, if he said 'spell erl' my boys would think he meant one of these english ears, and where would they be?"

JURY PROBES 'LOAN SHARKS'

LOS ANGELES, (P)—Two film actors, Benny Baker and Barney Dean, were called today as county grand jury witnesses in an inquiry into an alleged Hollywood "Loan Shark" agency.

John Klein, chief of the district attorneys' racket squad, said Baker told him he borrowed $50 to meet a sudden personal obligation and was required to pay $60 a week later.

The plump comedian was guarded against possible hoodlum retaliation. Klein disclosed three men have been placed under arrest on suspicion of violating the state small loan act. Two are former New Yorkers, Johnny Fisher and Mutky Weiner, put the third's identity is temporarily a secret, Klein said.

Dean borrowed $25, Klein said, but was unable to repay the stipulated $30 and so must meet a $5 weekly interest charge until he can pay the entire obligation.

Klein disclosed three men have been placed under arrest on suspicion of violating the state small loan act. Two are former New Yorkers, Johnny Fisher and Mutky Weiner, put the third's identity is temporarily a secret, Klein said.

Tip for Good Salesmen

By DALE CARNEGIE

Years ago, the late Sir Thomas Lipton, famous yachtsman and grand old sport, spent a week-end on Julian Detmer's yacht, the Florence, as a spick and span a ship as ever roared the waters of the North Atlantic.

As all the world knows, ships and tea were Sir Thomas's great interests. He made money on tea in order to spend it on ships. And he loved ships so much that it hurt him to see even a rowboat neglected. A ship had as much personality for him as a dog has for most men.

But Sir Thomas was not only a famous yachtsman, he was also a good salesman. And, as are all good salesmen, he was ever mindful of the importance of little things.

He was much impressed by the appearance of Mr. Detmer's yacht. He knew at a glance that this yacht was looked after by someone who loved ships and who took great pride in caring for it. And he had instantly a fellow feeling for this man. He went to the captain:

"As you know," he said, "I have had as much experience with yachts as anyone, and I must say I have never seen one kept in better shape than yours."

Well, we can all imagine how much this must have affected the captain. His pride in his work was appreciated! But did Sir Thomas stop there? No, sir. He was a salesman and a showman. He knew how to make the captain appreciate him as much as he appreciated the captain. He knew how to make the captain like him forever. So he put his arm around the captain's shoulder and said, "Let's have our pictures taken together."

The captain now has that picture framed and proudly shows it, and he is forever expressing his appreciation of Sir Thomas.

Do you want people to like you? Try giving them sincere appreciation.

Do you have difficulty in remembering names? I do. I am one of the world's worst. Yet I have discovered a little trick that helps immensely. Let me illustrate. I recently dropped in at the home of Jane Phillips, the artist, for luncheon. She had two other guests, Bernard Beck, an architect, and Miss Yvonne Rodeti, one of the best known authorities on French styles. (Miss Rodeti buys French gowns for 192 stores in America.) PAIR WED IN COUNTY JAIL

LOS ANGELES, (P)—Wedding bells echoed in the county jail today as Bridegroom Daniel Cameron, painter, awaited probation hearing and sentence on a forgery charge.

Briefly trading his prison denim for his best suit, Cameron was married yesterday in the chief jailer's office to Miss Virginia Schepman, 19.

A Catholic priest performed the ceremony. Then Cameron walked back to his cell and his bride went to her home.

"I don't care how long I have to wait," she said. "Somehow I'm going to raise enough money to get back the checks they say Dan wrote."

RECESSION HITS HARD IN MEXICO

MEXICO, D. F. (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas told the nation this week its government had more pesos to spend in 1937 than ever before—but Finance Minister Eduardo Suarez nevertheless was in New York hunting for dollars.

Explanation of that seeming anomalous situation, financial quarters said, was the business recession of the last four months, which found the administration pledged to year-end spending calculated too optimistically on booming revenues of earlier months.

NEEDS DOLLARS

Suarez needed the dollars primarily because the recession, and resulting shaken confidence, had cost the Bank of Mexico 34 per cent of its metal reserves and cut coverage of notes in circulation and other slight obligations from 60.70 to 42.69 per cent in just over three months.

Much of the recession, as in the United States, was due to uneasiness over Cardenas's future course, and the politically skillful president twice in the week sought to allay that feeling.

In his budget message to congress revealing 1937 expenditures would touch an all-time high of $57,900,000 pesos ($121,194,000) and asking appropriations totaling $18,555,000 pesos ($116,365,000) next year, he said:

USE SURPLUSES

"Inasmuch as the executive (power) in my charge recognizes that its program of public works calculated on the basis of normal revenues does not satisfy the needs of the country, it has been employing surpluses in augmenting the fixed national capital."

"However, the executive prepared to limit its work program in case the resources of the public treasury are not sufficient for any contingency of domestic order or of the world economic system."

That, bankers believed, was an implicit promise spending would be curtailed if the peso's exchange rate seemed to be in danger.

LUXURY LINER FIGHT MAPPED

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Plans to send a large Pacific coast delegation to congressional hearings in January on proposals to restore subsidies to intercoastal shipping were adopted here by the California "save our ships" committee.

The committee expressed the hope that the delegation, in addition to committee members, could include Mayor Frank Shaw of Los Angeles, Mayor Joseph Carson of Portland, Ore., and Mayor Angelo Rossi of San Francisco. The hearings will be held in Washington, D. C., Jan. 15 and 17.

Because of a new time law cutting out subsidies on intercoastal runs, and because of increased costs, the Panama Pacific and Grace lines have announced plans to suspend intercoastal service and place their fast liners in the Atlantic coast-Caribbean service.

Hall Heads Economic Group

CLAREMONT. (AP)—James K. Hall of University of Washington was president today of the Pacific Coast Economic association, now holding its annual conference at Pomona college.

Other new officers elected were Robert D. Calkins, University of California, vice president; William S. Hopkins, Stanford, secretary-treasurer; Arthur G. Coons, Occidental college, editor, and Dean James H. Gilbert, University of Oregon, and J. R. Mahoney, University of Utah, members of the executive committee.

Singing Cop

GEORGE STINSON

The road to operatic fame has begun for Orange county's "singing cop."

George Stinson, 34, former Santa Ana highway patrolman, was to sail to Italy yesterday on a round-trip ticket made possible by world famous musical stars.

Sponsored by such stars as Giovanni Martinelli, Kirsten Flagstad and Gina Cigna, Stinson will study for several months under some of Europe's greatest maestros.

A former member of the Orange county unit, California highway patrol, Stinson has been a patrolman on the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge for the past year. He has been singing since 1930, and his recent appearances caused Gaetano Merola, director of the San Francisco Opera company, to predict his "will be the golden voice of the present age."

CLUB HEARS DANCE TALK

The dance tells the story in motion, according to Gloria Gaylord, who spoke before the Breakfast club this morning on origins, beginning with the primitive and giving explanatory information about various dances of a number of countries, closing with the now popular "Big Apple" in America, which she said originated in Charleston, South Carolina, and was being accepted in swanky New York city night spots. Her interpretive pianist accompanists were Mrs. Scott Waddle and William Hampton.

Program Chairman Bob Davis gave an impersonation of "Father Time," and introduced Eddie Marable as "New Year."

The sketch was in burlesque.

The calisthenics were in charge of Bob Andrews.

Model Planes To Be Given Away

Want to be an aviator—and never leave the ground? Here's how!

Drop down to the Broadway theater Saturday afternoon for the special children's drawing. They're giving away another gas-powered, five-foot airplane on that day.

Six more of the planes remain to be given away, one each Saturday. Manager George King announced. Tickets may be obtained at more than a score of merchants sponsoring the airplane event.

Just as proof of the pudding, here are the four earlier winners: Edith May Grimes, 1115 Freeman street, Santa Ana; Gunning Butler, Jr., 1741 Anaheim street, Costa Mesa; Betty Born, 511 West First street, Tustin; Melvin Rez, 825 North Parton street, Santa Ana.

Date Set for Mass Flight

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The navy department said today Jan. 19 had been set tentatively as the date to start a mass flight of naval patrol planes from San Diego, Cal., to Honolulu.

The exact date depends on weather conditions, a spokesman said. There was no explanation for advancing the time for "some time in February," as previously announced.

Officials said a squadron of 12 patrol bombers probably would undertake the non-stop flight of approximately 2400 miles. The planes were described as replacements of old craft.

CARS STOLEN

Theft of two cars was reported to the sheriff's office early today. Bob Murphy, Bren, said his car was stolen from in front of the White Elephant cafe at Buena Park, and Jess Hardy, 112½ North Spadra street, Fullerton, reported theft of a car registered to Mac L. Henry, Garden Grove, from the rear of 314 North Pomona street, Fullerton.

A bicycle belonging to Jim Tamblin, 801 East Fifth street, was stolen from in front of a downtown theater between 8 and 10:30 p. m., he reported to police.

STATE FIRMS PAY HIGH FOR ARMS

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The senate civil liberties committee, in its recent report to congress, listed seven California firms or organizations as having made expenditures "for labor espionage, industrial munitions, strikebreaking and plant protection, etc."

It defined "espionage" as "expenditures for detective agency or similar service when so designated by the companies."

The California listings follow: Alaska Packers association, San Francisco, for munitions, $1365 in 1934; $158 in 1936.

California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining company, San Francisco, munitions, $2040 in 1934.

E. C. Cord, Beverly Hills, munitions, $551, in 1935; $761 in 1936. Hammond Lumber company, Eureka, munitions, $1272, in 1934.

Standard Oil company of California, San Francisco, for munitions, $661 in 1934, $103 in 1935, $146 in 1936; for espionage, $43 in 1933, $146 in 1935.

Abbey to Handle Emerson Estate

Special letters of administration in the $23,000 estate of Mrs. Mary Cox Emerson, Pauline school teacher, were granted yesterday to Public Administrator Earl Abbey. Abbey filed his petition for letters after the death of Mrs. Emerson's husband, Edward E. Emerson, Monday. Mrs. Emerson died Dec. 11.

Mr. Emerson was named sole heir and executor in the will. His estate now will receive the money, unless some of it goes to Robert Burns Cox, a brother of Mrs. Emerson, who was not named in her will. Abbey's petition was filed after Morris Cain, Santa Ana attorney nominated as executor by Mr. Emerson, had waived his right to act.

Three Automobiles Found Abandoned

Orange county motorists received bills for 1938 auto licenses yesterday.

Three cars were reported abandoned last night.

There may be no connection. Cars registered to Mrs. Edna Beard, 434 South Sycamore street, and Elmer Baumbach, 1630 West Fifth street, and a third one with no registration slip but with a Missouri license were found on lonely Orange county roads.

The Beard car was abandoned only temporarily because it ran out of gas, deputy sheriffs learned.

Rooster Crows At Wrong Time

Neighbors complained of a crowing rooster at 820 Garfield street yesterday.

Police went out to see what could be done.

Now the argument's settled: Owners agree to eat the bird New Year's day.

PLATES STOLEN

Less than a week before applications will be received for next year's licenses, Ray Hollenbeck, 838 North Van Ness street, yesterday reported theft of a pair of 1937 plates from the car he had parked at the rear of his house.

GAS TAX IN STATE SHOWS BIG GAIN

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—California's gasoline tax returned $4,208,436 to the state in November, a gain of 1.90 per cent over the corresponding month of last year, the state board of equalization said today.

The tax was assessed against the sale of 140,281,207 gallons. It was slightly under the tax of $4,308,581 reported for October of this year.

The November income brought the total gasoline tax collections up to $47,177,097.04 for the calendar year and bore out predictions of board of equalization officials that the revenue from the tax during 1937 would be in excess of $50,000,000 for the first time in the history of the state.

Banded Duck on Long Trip to Siberian Death

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—A pintail duck at Los Banos, Jan. 3, 1936 started on a world tour but met his death at Indian Point, Siberia, in the spring of this year, according to word received here by the state division of fish and game.

The fowl was killed by an Eskimo but the band put on it by Dwight C. Vedder, a cooperator of the United States bureau of biological survey, has just been reported.

Ibanez Leaves For Wilderness

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Ramon Ibanez, who catches wild animals for film studios, zoos and circuses, prepared today to sail Jan. 5 on his 20th trip in the past nine years to the wilds of South America.

On his forthcoming junket he will take a steamer to Colombia and then a boat up the Magdalena river to Magangué, there entering the jungle with 10 native hunters.

Ibanez plans to bring back 300 monkeys, 200 of which have been ordered by a movie studio, giant ant-eaters, snakes and about 1000 wild birds.

$87,000 Loss Only 'Dream'

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Dep. Police Chief John Haller said today a $20-a-week porter who had reported losing $87,000 cash told him today the money existed only in his imagination.

Haller said Henry Kildzia, 46, who offered $10,000 reward in a local newspaper advertisement for return of the money, revealed his actual loss was only $83. The police official said Kildzia reported the loss at $87,000 in order to win sympathy of members of the Newark Athletic club, where he worked.

Boy Gets Title To Fortune

BALTIMORE. (AP)—Two boys who found caches of gold coins valued at $30,000 in a Baltimore cellar more than two years ago held clear title to their funds today—but Ted Jones rejoiced alone. His chum, Henry Grob, died several months ago while litigation over their second discovery was pending.

The boys unearthed the gold while burying "documents" of their secret club. Owners of the property vainly contested their right to the money, Circuit Judge Samuel K. Dennis ruling, in effect, "finders keepers."

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB

Col. Ralph D. Horton, popular Los Angeles Townsend speaker will be at Santa Ana Townsend hall at 7:30 o'clock tonight as the guest of Santa Ana club No. 3. Sending the word out that Horton will speak always creates interest among the Townsends as they like him immensely and why shouldn't they, as he is always on the job with fresh information and can deliver it in proper Townsend manner. Philip S. Doolittle will preside over tonight's meeting and introduce the speaker. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Santa Ana club No. 7 is not meeting tonight because of the schools being closed. This club's next meeting will be a week from tonight in the Julia Lathrop Junior High school on South Main street.

Tomorrow night is New Year's eve and Santa Ana club No. 11 has decided to celebrate it in proper manner by holding a regular business meeting at 7:30 o'clock with Fred Seifert, president, in the chair. L. C. Carlisle has been secured as the evening speaker. Afterward the club will serve free of charge, doughnuts and coffee. Musical entertainment has been arranged for and among songs which will be sung during the evening will be "We Won't Go Home Till Morning." And that's right, for the meeting has been planned at a watch meeting which will continue until the old year has been rung out and the new year rung in.

After the whistles have tooted and the bells have pealed out the arrival of 1938 and while the carnon crackers are still popping the Townsends will depart for their homes, resolved to work harder and to add more new members to the clubs they represent than they did in 1937. Mrs. E. G. Warner and Mrs. E. G. Best are both responsible for both this column knowing about the watch meeting. Here's gambling that Santa Ana's ex-mayor, E. G. Warner, who is an enthusiastic member of this club will be on hand to put zest into the affair. A cordial invitation is extended to all Townsends to dress up in a holiday spirit, with other things added, and join the parade tomorrow night to the Franklin school at 1512 West Fourth street where the meeting will be held. Altogether, let everybody say, "I'll be seeing you there."

A card from R. E. Marks, president of Santa Ana club No. 10 announces a meeting of the club at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in Santa Ana Townsend hall at 508 West Fourth street. Nomination of officers for the ensuing year will be made. Let all members attend and help select the ones to be voted upon in a later meeting. This column suggests that after the business meeting is over that all the members of this club journey out to club No. 11 watch meeting and join in the fun.

Tomorrow's the eventful day when the 19th district Townsend convention will be held in Anaheim. The convention has been called to convene at 1 o'clock p. m. in the Townsend club building at 210 South Clementine street. Delegates will be coming from all over the 19th district and the selection of another district board will be the chief order of business on the program. According to John W. Sauer of Tustin, and Dist. Mgr. J. H. Walsh in statements made Monday evening in the Roy J. Webb meeting in Santa Ana Townsend hall, the idea of attempting to elect a district board with authority has been abandoned and the board selected will operate in advisory capacity only.

This column is glad to see such good sense expressed by the two above named gentlemen and hopes they will clear themselves completely by deciding not to put up a fight to keep clubs from having delegates on the floor of the convention merely because they have not contributed to the support of the present district board during its term of office. If the idea is persisted in as expressed in the district board's last two bulletins this column predicts there will be plenty doing in the convention. There is no more reason why district boards should violate the Townsend manual or instructions than there is for Townsends to do so. Neither has any right to disregard its instructions.

Brea club No. 1 is meeting at 7:30 p. m. tonight in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Thornburg at 325 South Pomona street for a business meeting. This club wishes to have announced that the beautiful afghan offered by the Brea club during the recent Townsend bazaar was drawn by Mrs. Harold Ellenberger of Brea. A number from this club was in attendance at the Roy Webb meeting in Santa Ana Monday evening.

After the above had been written a telephone call from Orange, came asking that this column chronicle the passing in a tragic accident Monday evening of N. L. "Daddy" Raymond, 74, night watchman for the Anaconda Wire and Cable company, also vice president of Orange Townsend club No. 1. Mr. Raymond had been in attendance with J. A. Green at the Santa Ana Townsend meeting up until 10 p. m. the night he was injured. Funeral services were conducted at 2 p. m. today from the Presbyterian church in Orange and interment made in Fairhaven cemetery. Daddy Raymond as he was affectionately known, will be greatly missed by his many Orange county Townsend friends. He was riding his bicycle in the fog to work when the accident occurred. Shannon funeral parlors had charge of the services and pallbearers were from Orange Townsend friends.

Patrol and individual winners in small contests, such as first aid work, best camps and participation in county Scout events, counted in the final point judging which also included credits for advancement and individual honor brought to the troop.

The winning group, accompanied by Scoutmaster, will leave Monday for the park, where they visited various points of interest, including Hospital rock and several groves of big trees. One day was devoted to exploring in the higher elevations.

At a recent court of honor, second class rank was conferred upon Aaron Lighter, Robert Beecher, Charles Wilkerson, Paul McGee, Lewis Dinger and Eugene Pilley. Donald Wild, Raymond Lesnick and Pat Lanning were admitted to the troop as tenderfoot Scouts.

CHAPTER 29
"Try him again, Miss Fisher," Alan was annoyed, but he tried not to show it. He found himself becoming more and more annoyed lately when things didn't go his way, and it was getting harder and harder for him to keep his temper.

He would have enjoyed shrieking at his secretary, and throwing his paper weight violently on the floor. Making a loud bang with it. He didn't.

HATING HER
He smiled at Miss Fisher, hating her as he smiled. He couldn't remember hating her a week ago. He had thought she was a nice girl, fairly efficient, rather timid, but nice to have around his office when he was in it.

When he wasn't she handled his business pretty well, and took his messages all right, and good enough for the $22.50 the Crossly and Martin Company paid her.

For week he had been decidedly hating her, and loathing the dress she had on. He wanted to tell her not to wear it any more, but he couldn't do that. Other men could tell their secretaries that they didn't like certain office costumes, but Alan couldn't—at least he thought he couldn't.

It was a black dress of some kind of sheer material, and at the neckline were three pink roses. Miss Fisher's chin nestled on them when she took dictation or when she phoned.

Alan found himself watching them, and the girl's chin—sometimes he couldn't draw his eyes away. He was looking at the roses now, wanting to go and tear them from the dress, and throw Miss Fisher bodily out of the office.

However, he controlled himself by gripping the edge of his seat, but he could feel the blood pounding in his temples.

SOMEHOW, some way, Miss Fisher had to go. And at once. He couldn't stand her and her dress with the pink roses in his office any longer. He thought he would go mad if he saw her face again.

"He isn't at his office, Mr. Jory, and he isn't at home. I tried both numbers," Miss Fisher was sorry. Her voice showed it. She was on edge, too, although she didn't understand why.

Mr. Jory had been—well, she couldn't explain it. So different lately. He was nice, but she had a feeling that he didn't like her any more. Not that he wasn't kind to her. He was.

And always considerate, but when he was in the office there was a tension between them that had never been there before. It was as if he was expecting her to do something wrong, and blaming her for it in his mind—even before the wrong had been committed.

"You're sure there wasn't a letter from Miss Degrelle?" he asked. "Sure, Mr. Jory. I took all the mail for you myself. There was quite a pile—you've been getting more and more mail lately, and there wasn't a letter from her, I'm positive." She spoke earnestly, for he was looking at her as if she had deliberately pocketed the letter he was expecting.

"There should be a letter," he muttered, going through the stack of opened envelopes in front of him again.

MAIN OFFICE
"I'll go out into the main office again, and see if it got into another pile by mistake." She was glad to leave the room, she had been wanting an excuse.

She stayed longer than was necessary to inquire about further mail for Mr. Jory, and was reluctant to come back.

"I couldn't locate it," she announced when she came in and took her seat at her desk. Again Alan steadied his nerves by gripping the seat of his chair. Again he wanted to tear the roses off Miss Fisher's dress, and bounce her out of the room.

He was angry, too, at Lois, because she hadn't written him as she promised, and he had been looking for a letter. Angry at Walter because Walter wasn't in when he wanted him to be in.

CALLED WALTER
He picked up the phone and called Walter's office to assure himself that Miss Fisher had been telling the truth. Mr. Degrelle had come in at nine this morning, he was informed, and had gone out at nine-thirty.

He had left no message where he was or when he would get back. The girl who answered the phone thought he might be in at noon.

Jory had something to discuss with Walter that wouldn't wait, something that he had thought of coming down to work, for he had seen Walter at breakfast—in the absence of Mrs. Degrelle and Lois, Walter was living at Alan's apartment.

So many things worried him, made him irritable.

The visit of George Cramer, this morning, for instance. First thing when he got into his office, finding Cramer sitting down. Dodge Roland's former butler and caretaker wanted something, as everybody wanted something these days.

IN THE FUTURE
He wanted to know what he was going to do in the future. Mr. Roland had left nothing for him in his will, and he thought that Mr. Jory might take him into his employment, his wife, too.

He gave Alan a long story about how faithful he and Della had been to Mr. Roland, and how they would serve Mr. Jory the same way.

Alan had to listen quietly and interestedly, when as with Miss Fisher he wanted to throw Cramer out of the office and down the stairs. When he hated his face too, in a way he had never hated it before.

He had to tell Cramer that he had been considering doing something for him, and that he planned to do something—although he didn't know what it would be. All the time he was saying this he was wishing Cramer at the end of the world so that he would never have to see his face again—or Della's face, for that matter.

He was wishing an earthquake would come and shake down the house on West Adams street, and with Cramer and Della—annihilate them quite thoroughly, and the house, too.

LONG CONVERSATION
There was the long telephone conversation with Talcott after Cramer's visit—and he hated Talcott, too, with his smug pomposity and his tales of Dodge Roland.

Fifteen minutes by the clock Talcott had talked, and he had listened, and tried to be polite, business-like.

Thank God he didn't have to see Talcott today! That would be too much! He would try and avoid him tomorrow, too, and the next day.

Miss Fisher's typewriter was making so much noise—more noise than usual. Clicking, and clicking, and the carriage banging as it flew to make another line.

He couldn't see the pink roses—for her back was toward him as she sat at her machine, but he knew they were there casting that blush on her neck that was almost the same color as the rouge on her cheeks.

THE TELEPHONE RANG, and she turned to answer it, and he saw the roses, and the glow at her throat.

COME TO LUNCH
"Mr. Blair, Mr. Howard's secretary," she announced. "Mr. Howard was coming here at 1:30, you know. He can't get away now, so he wants to know if you'll come to lunch at the hotel at noon."

"Tell Mr. Blair to tell Mr. Howard I'm tied up. No! Tell him I'll be there..."

He heard her repeat the message as he signed some letters. His signature was shaky, not the usual bold letters that formed his name.

Another annoyance, almost as irritating as Cramer's visit, or Talcott's phone call. He didn't want to see Howard, didn't want to see anyone in fact but Lois and Walter.

And he had to see Howard—not only that but he had to talk business with him, try to sell him some bonds, and smile at him, and chat with him as if all he had on his mind was selling bonds for Crossly and Martin. Well, he was working for them yet, and he was getting paid by them for selling bonds, and Howard might be a good customer.

He didn't know. Until he was his own boss, when the estate was settled and he and Walter went into business together, he was bound by Crossly and Martin rules and rules.

THE SECOND BATCH of mail came—nothing from Lois in it. He still couldn't get Walter on the phone. SIGH OF RELIEF

Marjorie Fisher was glad to see him pick up his brief case at quarter of 12 and leave. She heaved a great sigh of relief when the door closed after him.

She went to the company dressing room to get herself ready to go out, and for the second time that day admired her new black dress in the long mirror on the wall. When she had come to work that morning she had admired it, too, in the same mirror.

She had patted the roses at her throat. The dress was lovely, so becoming, everybody had admired it. She should wear black more, her friends said. The roses gave the dress enough life to take away the dead of the black.

HUNT FOR A JOB
She made up her face carefully, looking at the pink roses as she put fresh rouge on her cheeks. She wasn't going to have any lunch today. She was going to hunt for another job on her noon hour, go to an agency and see what she could get.

Snatch a chocolate bar on the way back to the office, and eat it before Mr. Jory came in. If she didn't land a job today, she was going to try the same thing tomorrow noon, and again until she found one.

WHO SUGGESTED AMES FIGHT, ANYWAY?

SUPERVISORS
RETICENT AS TO HONORFive Possible Authors
Of Idea

By FRANK ORR

Who was behind the supervisors' blast against Judge H. G. Ames? Possibilities for the doubtful honor narrowed down to five persons, more or less, as the court-house still resounded today from Supervisor John Mitchell's precedent-shattering motion asking Judge Ames' removal as juvenile judge.

FRANK ORR

Mitchell's motion, incidentally, was worded wrong. It asked that a "change be made in the judge of the juvenile home." There is no judge of the juvenile home. Judge Ames is judge of the juvenile court, and has no direct control over the home.

WHO SOCKED JUDGE?

Candidates for the who-soaked-the-judge award:

1. Mitchell.
2. Supervisor N. E. West.
3. Supervisor Harry D. Riley.
4. Supervisor Steele Finley.
5. J. A. Cranston.

Mitchell (to take them in order) made the motion. He has been a frequent critic of Supt. Fred Germany, and wants to replace Germany with a superintendent whose wife would live at the home and be co-supervisor. He is a member of the juvenile home committee, and takes an active interest in it, although believing the probation committee isn't doing right by our bad boys. Mitchell drew a set of plans, even, when addition to the home was being considered; and was much interested in the whole program.

WEST IN FINE FUROR

West, center of a fine furor already, fired the first recent shot against administration of the home when fighting with Judge Ames two months ago. He charged that children of tender years were being thrown in with "hardened criminals" (if a child 16 or 17 can be a hardened criminal) and that the home was mismanaged.

Riley is hardly a possibility, although it was his remark that a "good organizer" was needed as coordinator which brought him into disfavor when Riley first blocked Judge Ames' request for a $3000 salary for the proposed coordinator. (That office, incidentally, has not yet been created, although it's been in the budget since August.)

Finley, indirectly threatened by Judge Ames with a grand jury investigation with hints that someone tried to "sell the bodies and souls of our children for a mess of political pottage," seconded Mitchell's motion. He reportedly was holding out for his candidate (Cranston) for coordinator, following Cranston's swinging several thousand votes to Finley for supervisor.

MEBBE CRANSTON

Last in the list (but not least, as the subtitles used to say) is Cranston, who has been in a pretty political pickle since he first

I Just Found Out
First Aid for Sore Feet—By—
MILLARD
BROWNE

Flat feet, Mister? Or are you bothered by corns or bunions? Do you shuffle or step high? And are you pigeon-toed? Whatever your foot peculiarities, don't let F. D. Van Gilder, factory superintendent of the Burns' Cuboid Co., see the soles of your shoes, or the secret might be out.

Van Gilder, like everyone else at the local arch-support factory, is a foot-watcher. By just looking at the sole and heel of a well-worn shoe, he can pretty well tell how the owner lives.

The Burns company calls its product "cuboids" because the whole arch support is aimed at bolstering and strengthening the cuboid bone, which officials at the local foot comfort plant claim is key bone of the weight-bearing arch.

Though it attempts to provide comfort for foot ailment sufferers, the Burns' support also is advertised as a corrective device that eventually will build up the arch to its normal strength.

Head of Burns' Cuboid Co., Inc., is Clyde C. Downing, its original president and general manager. The organization was founded on the strength of an invention and set of patterns by W. C. Burns, Oregon foot specialist.

Incorporated in Santa Ana a year and a half ago, Burns' Cuboid now turns out from 4500 yearned for the coordinator's job. Cranston was seen in the court-house Tuesday. He resigned from the probation committee after a score of years, most of them as chairman, following the big blow-up two months ago.

Cranston has been devoted to the coordinating council idea. When the council was set up in the county budget, he thought he was all set, so to speak. Finley was for him. He thought the rest of the board was. He thought Judge Ames and the probation committee would plug for him. But the rest of the board wouldn't go with Finley, and neither would all the probation committee. Judge Ames, very properly, adopted a hands-off attitude, because the appointment wasn't his but the committee's.

BITING LETTERS

Cranston took that personally, and thought the judge was out to get him. He wrote biting letters to the press, and began plugging for a judgeship candidate on the hope he could be appointed coordinator later.

His chances already were small before this move came up. They had dwindled considerably several weeks ago when his accounts in an estate, where he was guardian for an 80-year-old woman, were found faulty by Judge G. K. Scovel, and it was revealed he had attempted to sell the woman's estate an annuity in a company for which he (Cranston) was sales agent.

Who was responsible for Tuesday's blast, we couldn't say. None of this is meant actually to place the responsibility. One member of this quintet just might have had the main idea.

The idea, it appears, was a lemon.

to 5000 pairs of arch supports a month including seven types (each aimed at correction of a different foot ailment), a range of 36 different sizes and four widths for each size.

Size most frequently sold is 7-narrow, which roughly corresponds to a 7 A or B in shoe size, though the factory keeps a full line of supports from 3 to 14. They aren't recommended for children whose feet are still growing.

Cuboids are marketed in 15 cities scattered all over the country, but they're all sold by specialists trained right here in the Santa Ana factory. Salesmen all are foot specialists to begin with, then take a three weeks' orthopedics course from Mrs. J. M. Jesse, local instructor, and spend nearly two weeks working in the factory to familiarize themselves with the product.

One such prospective salesman began his course today, will be drilled to open a Cuboid agency in Pasadena.

Sixty operations go into the manufacture of Cuboids, and three-fourths of the work is done by hand. The tops are cut by dies (under a heavy piece of shoe-making machinery called a "clicking machine") from choice shoulder cuts of hides that have been oil-tanned. Acid-tanned leather is poison to feet, factory officials explain. Possibility of poison content also is the main reason they don't dare use dyes.

Arch-support bottoms are cut from a three-ply wood-and-rubber combination that's pressed and vulcanized together. The combination keeps the supports from sliding around in shoes, though they're removable.

Cuboids are made removable on purpose, because the company encourages customers to use them with more than one pair of shoes.

Actual support comes from medium-hard rubber pads inserted according to carefully mapped patterns between the top and bottom surfaces. Two such pads are put in all Cuboids—one designed to lift the cuboid bone itself, the other a "heel lock" that keeps the heel bone at the right angle. The other pads are placed in different positions, depending on the ailment.

Universal presence of the cuboid support, factory officials claim, is the main distinctive feature of Cuboids. "If the cuboid bone is in place, you can't have any serious foot trouble," Van Gilder explained. A fallen arch can be lifted into place by merely setting the cuboid bone right, he claims.

Fundamental pattern for Cuboid supports includes support for the entire weight-bearing arch (heel, cuboid bone and outer arch, and the metatarsal arch across the base of the toes) and no support for the inner arch, which manufacturers claim never was intended to support weight.

Many of the rubber pads now used in Cuboids are hand-cut from big sheets of imported rubber, though the sizes and shapes used most frequently are ordered ready-made. With its current investment of nearly $20,000 in equipment that will handle raw rubber, the factory plans in the future to do all its own molding.

Santa Ana itself supports the local arch-support business better than any of the bigger cities where Cuboids are marketed, and a full-time salesman here has fitted the supports to several thousand local citizens—even got a testimonial from one of the city councilmen.

Probation Asked
On Check Charge

Charged with two counts of bad checks, Aurelio Tirado changed his not-guilty plea on one count yesterday afternoon and asked probation. Hearing was set by Presiding Superior Judge James L. Allen for Jan. 7.

The other count was dismissed on motion of Deputy Dist. Atty. Warren Schutz after Tirado entered the guilty plea.

SEAL SALE
TOPS $6000
TO DATE

"Five thousand, seven hundred and ninety-six contributors have sent in to the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health Association, Ltd., 112 West Fifth street, Santa Ana, a total of $6778.98, to apply toward a goal of $10,000 urgently needed to finance the tuberculosis control and prevention program in Orange county," according to Dr. Margaret D. Baker, Santa Ana, president of the association.

"A total of 10,395 people have responded to the Christmas Seal mail appeal, 4599 of them returning the seals. There are still 16,022 of the letters not yet heard from. The Christmas seal contract with the National Tuberculosis association calls for one written reminder to this group who fail to respond. It is planned to send these out soon after Jan. 1," stated Dr. Baker. "Therefore, to avoid receiving a postcard reminder and to save the association this additional expense, those who have postponed paying for or returning their seals until after the holidays are urged to do so immediately."

"The Orange County Tuberculosis and Health Association, Ltd., is a non-profit organization with a volunteered board of directors of 36 members, representative of the entire county, who meet monthly."

The association conducts a year-round educational campaign urging, sponsoring and demonstrating the use of modern methods for uncovering tuberculosis in its early stages when there are no symptoms, before it has reached a communicable stage and when a cure can be assured. To find such cases means that healthy people must be examined. A free clinic is conducted at the county hospital, and a $3 clinic for the middle class, financially, at the tuberculosis association. Christmas seals make the latter clinic possible.

Drunk Driving
Fine, Court Feature

Fourteen overtime parking tickets—half of which were made out to Mary B. Arnold, Santa Ana—and a $200 drunk driving fine constituted major business in City Judge J. G. Mitchell's court yesterday.

John S. Roberts, Santa Ana, fined the $200, made arrangements to pay the amount in installments.

Rules for Registration of Voters Explained by Clerk

You don't have to re-register for next year's elections, unless:

1. You have moved since you voted last; or
2. You did not vote in the August primary or November general election in 1936.

This advice was given to Orange county residents today by County Clerk B. J. Smith, who said many voters were under the impression that a complete new registration is scheduled for 1938.

"This is not a fact," said Smith, "and only those who have moved since they last voted or whose registration was cancelled on account of failure to vote will be required to re-register."

"For those who have just become citizens and those who have arrived in the county recently, the law provides that they must be citizens of the United States 90 days before the next ensuing election, residents of the state one year, county 90 days and precinct 40 days."

Closing date for registration for elections in cities of the sixth class, Smith said, is March 31, 1938.

All cities in the county except Santa Ana are in this class.

"I respectfully request," said Smith, "that you do not re-register if you voted at the August primary or the November general in 1936 and have not changed your place of residence since voting last, as your registration then is still in full force."

Puzzled voters, not sure whether or not they should re-register, should call his office, Smith said. He urged early registration by those requiring it, because of the short time between closing date and day of election.

'PULL' MAKES CRIME EASY, SAYS LAWYER

"Glorification" of criminals and acquittals because of "pull" were denounced in a talk to Santa Ana Kiwanians yesterday by David Coleman, Los Angeles attorney, at the club's weekly luncheon in Masonic Temple.

"The public can help reduce the $13,000,000,000 annual crime bill," Coleman declared, "by supporting the officials who are doing their duty and by electing officials who will . . . glorify your law enforcement agents, not your criminals."

Though now concerned with "keeping people out of jail, and getting them out if they're in," Coleman, a former deputy district attorney in Los Angeles county, cited several recent sensational trials in which defendants with "pull" had been acquitted and later offered screen contracts.

"Granting that they're nice fellows and don't look like the criminal type to a jury," he said, "why should they become heroes?"

The greatest advantage of a defendant in facing a jury, Coleman added, is his own appearance and his manner, and if he appears mild and cultured a jury will rarely convict him.

"If as many persons were killed by gangsters as are killed by negligent driving," he said, "the public wouldn't rest until it had reorganized all law enforcement officers. And yet, the ordinary person charged with auto manslaughter is rarely convicted."

Coleman was introduced by Senator Harry Westover, chairman of the day. The meeting was conducted by R. B. Newcomer, outgoing president who turns over the gavel to Maurice Enderle next week.

Judge Imposes 'Red
Stripe' Again

S. Tada, 64-year-old ranch hand now a county jail prisoner, today was considering ways and means of obtaining a driver's license when he is released three months hence.

If he does get a license, he will become the second "guinea pig" in Presiding Superior Judge James L. Allen's "red stripe" plan for traffic offenders.

Tada was granted three years' probation last week by Judge Allen, on condition he spend three months in jail and then paint a four-inch red stripe around his car when he is permitted to drive it. The prisoner was accused of driving a car while his license was suspended.

Tomaso, W. L. Newcomer's prize peacock, feeding from his owner's hand.

By C. K. PRIEST

A few centuries hence, antiquarians of the future may discover fossil peacocks in Orange county and thereby credit this garden spot of California with a special branch of the luxuriously ornate species of fowl that is ordinarily considered native only to India and Ceylon. And if this discovery of a future century should come to pass, it would be due to the present efforts of a few unassuming men like W. L. Newcomer of Garden Grove Acres who are now rearing peacocks, in all their glory of color, to become properly glamorous parts of Southland landscapes.

Only the other day archeologically speaking (as a matter of fact it was in 1908) a fossil peacock was found in California soil. A few weeks ago, a half dozen specimens of a Congo peacock, found and identified 20 years after a scientist had spied a feather in a native's hat, were brought to the American Museum of Natural History in New York, the first known examples of the species to be discovered in Africa. Since the bird's original habitat is India, the obvious conclusion is that the peacock gets around.

From the beginning the peacock has held a strange fascination. Solomon brought them to Jerusalem; Alexander the Great collected them in his conquering expeditions; the Greeks had a myth about them and the Romans dined on peacock brains and tongues. In the Middle Ages, roast peacock, garnished with plumage, was a prize dish. In India today the white peacock is a sacred bird that may be possessed only by members of one caste.

And in California the peacock holds promise of becoming a valued ally of the citrus grower, for the bird has an omnivorous appetite and ranks high as a destroyer of insect pests.

Seven years ago Mr. and Mrs. Newcomer purchased their first pair. Mrs. Newcomer had always been a lover of the birds and the business of raising them has been more of a pleasure than a task at their Garden Grove Acres home. Today they have 15.

HARD-WORKING FOWL.

The peahen, a very domestic, hard-working fowl beside her strutting mate, lays a clutch of eight to twelve eggs, and, if she is then taken from the nest, will lay a second clutch. The fertility, however, is about half that of turkey or chicken eggs. Some of Newcomer's eggs have been hatched

It is fortunate for the peacock that some quirk of fancy spotlighted the turkey for Thanksgiving and Christmas tables. As it is, the holidays bring no foreboding to the birds at Garden Grove Acres. They patrol their runs quietly, without fuss or feathers, forerunners perhaps of a day when every Southern California ranch will have a colorful flock mobilized in the war against insect pests.

BUZZ SAW GETS TOO NOISY

Two years is a long time to be a buzz saw's neighbor. Corinne W. Gerard of Laguna Beach got tired.

She had filed suit today in superior court for $12,155 against F. M. Pitt and the Public Mill and Lumber company.

Her house in Laguna terrace, she claims, is next door to the sawmill, although the district is not zoned for industry. She cited "lathes, saws and hammers" for making "loud and disturbing noises and roaring and rumbling sounds and uproar continuing during the day and often into the night."

She asked $1155 for loss of rentals, $10,000 general and $1000 punitive damages and abatement of the alleged nuisance.

17,000 PASS
STATE EXAMS
DURING 1937

SACRAMENTO.—Nearly 17,000 of the 50,000 persons who took state civil service examinations in 1937 succeeded in getting their names on the eligible lists, Louis J. Kroger, executive officer of the state personnel board reported.

An even greater number of persons—73,000—filed applications for examination but some 19,000 failed to meet requirements and the rest did not appear for the tests.

Kroger said during the year 9500 certifications for employment had been made from the eligible lists.

The state now has 20,700 under civil service in full or part time with an additional 2750 in positions exempt from civil service.

This represents a substantial increase over the previous year when civil service employees numbered 17,800 and those under exemption 2500.

Examinations also showed a large increase over 1936. In that year 37,400 appeared.

Kroger pointed out major undertakings of the board for the year included a comprehensive salary survey to study relation of salaries of state employees and those of private industry. Hearings on the findings are now being held.

Another accomplishment, he said, was the extension of the mailing list service to notify those interested of pending examinations. Bulletins were posted and sent to newspapers.

During the year, William Brownrigg, former head of the personnel work was granted a year's leave of absence to establish a similar system in Michigan. Kroger took over his position.

Changes in the membership of the board included Ray L. Riley, who resigned as state controller to accept a position on the state railroad commission and was succeeded by Harry B. Riley; state finance director A. E. Stockburger whose term expired and who was followed by Harry Lutgens, director of the department of institutions, and the elevation of Fred B. Wood to the chairman-ship in place of E. H. Christian.

Betrothal Is Revealed At Tea

W. H. Spurgeon III
To Wed Popular
Los Angeleno

That Miss Kathleen Higgins of Los Angeles will wed William Henry Spurgeon III of Santa Ana yesterday at a formal tea given at the home of Miss Cecile Hallingby of Los Angeles. Announcement of the engagement came as a surprise to the assembled group, most of whom were Kappa Alpha Theta sorority sisters of Miss Higgins at the University of Southern California, for the affair was ostensibly in honor of Miss Elsie Jane Burkett of South Pasadena, home from the University of Michigan.

No date was announced for the wedding of the popular young couple, but it is understood to be scheduled for late in the spring. Miss Higgins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. U. M. Higgins of South Mansfield avenue, and Mr. Spurgeon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Spurgeon, jr., and grandson of Santa Ana's founder, W. H. Spurgeon. He attended the University of London and is a graduate of Pomona college, where he was a member of Phi Delta. He is at present connected with Smart and Final Co. at Wilmington.

Prominent in the receiving line yesterday were Mrs. W. H. Spurgeon, jr., of Santa Ana, Mrs. H. U. M. Higgins, and Mrs. Paul Hallingby, mother of the hostess. Presiding over the tea table were Mrs. A. C. Abbott, grandmother of the groom-to-be; Mrs. Russell Burkett, and Mrs. Leo S. Sutor. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Sherrill Spurgeon Rice, sister of Mr. Spurgeon; and the Misses Dorothy McCune, La Verne Ruthenford, Laurella Lancaster, Jane Rosenberg, Betty Peir, and Emmy Lou Dell, all U. S. C. classmates of the hostess and Miss Higgins.

PADUA PLAYERS PREPARE NEW PLAY

"Prospero ano nuevo" is the greeting being sent out today by the Mexican Players, now in their last week of their Christmas show, "Las Posadas," to their thousands of friends both here in the Southland and throughout the United States. With this wish for a prosperous 1938 they are bringing to the Padua Hills theater in their new play, "The Professor Visits Veracruz," which opens with a matinee Wednesday, Jan. 5, the promise of a colorful and lively new year.

A companion piece and in a sense sequel to the very popular "It Rained in Xan Rio," the coming play was written by Charles A. Dickinson, who is also directing it in rehearsals and acting the leading role of the professor, the part he made so engagingly humorous in "It Rained in Xan Rio." This play is set in the exotic splendor of the tropical coast, in a section of Mexico noted for its songs and dances and the striking beauty of its costumes. The play, which will therefore be a treat for the eye and ear, is woven around the plot of a well-known at all moments laughable machinations of the professor of entomology who takes time out in his quest for elusive and rare bugs to straighten out one or two pretty involved courtships. The straightening-out is not accomplished without many hilarious situations unforeseen by the good-natured but bumbling professor.

Featured in this gay comedy of Veracruz are Rebecca Romo, distinguished alike for her beauty and voice, Eduardo Montalvo, well-known for his many successful portrayals at the Padua Hills theater, and Ponce Espino, whose genial personality is familiar to many people.

BRIDE-ELECT OF JANUARY IS FETED

Because Miss Mildred Loudon, daughter of Lotus H. Loudon, who is publisher of the Anaheim Bulletin, will be married on Jan. 7 to Don Taggart of Anaheim, ladies from the newspaper's offices last night joined to fete the young bride-to-be with a miscellaneous shower.

The group gathered in the home of Mrs. E. C. Rundstrom, Anaheim, last night to find decorations in the appropriate holiday motif had been arranged by the three hostesses, Mrs. Virginia Hodges, Mrs. Adele Visel, and Mrs. Floyd McCracken. Bowls of poinsettias and tall taper candles were set throughout the rooms. A dessert course was served early in the evening at small tables, following which miscellaneous games were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Edward Van Dyke, Mrs. Lotus H. Loudon and Mrs. Wray. The honor guest was privileged to open her lovely gifts which had been piled around the gay Christmas tree, late in the evening.

Included in the group of friends who gathered to compliment Miss Loudon were her mother, Mrs. Lotus H. Loudon, Mrs. Richard Fischle, Mrs. Robert Jacobs, Mrs. Jimmy Heffron, Miss Anne Childs, Miss Winola Mesger, Mrs. Edward Van Dyke, Mrs. Virginia Hodges, Mrs. Adele Visel, Mrs. Floyd McCracken and Mrs. Leon Wray.

Happy Birthday

Today The Journal congratulates the following on the anniversary of their birthdays: MRS. HARRIET A. BARNES, 1712 West Third street.

SHOCKING PINK

Glitter drama and curve-revealing cut spell glamor in holiday cocktail and dinner clothes. One of the most striking dinner gowns combines a "shocking pink" bodice with a deep contrasting blue skirt—both of sheer silk chiffon. Ostrich plumes in the same colors top the dramatic little hat. Short-sleeved, short-skirted black cocktail frocks and ankle length black dinner suits are spattered with sparkle or color and worn with striking veiled hats.

Mary Stoddard

'Kate' Faces Two Problems—Meeting Young People, and Her Ex-Fiance

Today there's a new letter and a new problem, a fitting way to bring the old year to a close. And we hope that we shall have just lots more letters and problems that we may aid you with during the coming year. This is another of the problems that can probably be traced back to the parents, depending mainly on the type of discipline that the child has had since baby-hood.

Dear Miss Stoddard: Please excuse the informality of this letter but I am very anxious to get answers to my problems. You are always so good in helping people, I feel certain you will be able to help me.

My first problem is this: I am the only child in my family, therefore I'm afraid I'm inclined to be spoiled and petted. My parents always thought it would be best to have only one child and then they could give me so much more. I try not to be selfish and I am thankful for all I have. I'm not bad looking, in fact I am pretty and have a good figure. My mother always took time in selecting my clothes and I have learned to use taste in buying clothes and I also know how to take care of them. I am now finishing high school and am very popular.

Since moving here, my parents have been living with my mother's parents and since my grandparents are growing older they do not like noise, so I don't feel free to ask my friends to come to see me.

Will you please suggest some way for me to persuade my parents to get a place of our own.

My second problem is this: Three months ago a fellow five years my senior proposed to me. It wasn't the first time I have been proposed to, but this time it was different. I finally accepted him and we set a date. I was very happy. Two weeks before our wedding date he met a woman two years older than he. After Ed met this woman I broke our engagement, because I felt he wanted to be free. After that he began drinking and staying out nights.

The joy of meeting all their little friends and making acquaintance with others who are children of their parents' friends is one of the happiest events in the calendar of Ebell members, and each year the Junior Ebell is hostess to the youngsters of both senior and Junior clubs during the holiday week. Yesterday's annual party was by far the best attended of any yet, with half a hundred kiddies present to enjoy an hour's games, refreshments, and distribution of pretty and colorful gifts.

Added pleasure was given by the beautiful decorations, great clusters of blue and silver balloons which hung from the ceiling, matching the blue and silver Christmas trees on the stage of the Peacock room of the clubhouse. Golden yellow balloons in Penguin shape were given each child through the courtesy of the Shell Oil Co.

Mrs. Fred Burlew presided as general chairman of the party, welcoming the little guests and their mothers and grandmothers, with the assistance of her committee. I. C. ## PROFILE OF 1937

This is the sleek but curved fashion profile of 1937. Notice the accented bust, long, incurving waistline and slender molded neckline—all revealed by the smart black silk crepe frock finished with a silver semi-necklace. The swept-up coiffure offers decided contrast to the summer's page boy bob.

Mary Hampton's Column

I'd say that a pair of mittens and a skirt were the first prerequisites of looking smart out on the ice—and of the two, it's the skirt that really comes first. You see, like good fashion scouts should, I have been winter-diving into the cold of the rinks to watch the pink-cheeked merry-makers, and to check up on those good old "dos" and "don'ts."

And whether it's slender young daughter with her trick Page Boy bob or a merry mother "who used to be a girl" who is taking up the smart vogue for skating.

PHI OMEGAS IN TUCKER HOME

When members of Phi Omega sorority gathered last night in the home of Miss Annie Tucker on North Shelton street, it was for a brief business meeting conducted by Miss Helen Fine, vice president, in the absence of Mrs. Lester Boyle, who was unable to attend.

VIVID BAYADERE AND RAINBOW STRIPES

Silhouetted white bayadere stripes running horizontally across black pique set the seal of 1938 on this resort frock. A brief bolero covers the low-cut sun back of the dress.

These stripes, in multi-colored rainbow design, its attached, peaked hood. The coat has a nipped-pattern a short beach coat of cotton haircord and in waistline and full, peasant skirt.

'WELLS FARGO'
NOW SHOWING

"It's bigger than 'Cavalcade'." This statement was made by Director Frank Lloyd about "Wells Fargo," epochal film of the story of the development of transportation in America which opens today at the West Coast theater.

And according to advance notices, Lloyd knows what he is talking about, for he was the director of "Cavalcade," the picture which won him the Academy award.

Elements in "Wells Fargo" cited by the director as being even more impressive than those in "Cavalcade" include a cast topped by 50 name roles and extra talent numbering up to 2000 people in some sequences.

Heading the cast of "Wells Fargo" are Joel McCrea, as a young express messenger of 1844 who attains greatness with the development of transportation; Bob Burns, as a plainsman whose chore is to blaze the trail westward for communications; and Frances Dee, daughter of an aristocratic southern family who becomes McCrea's bride and mother of two children.

The period covered by the film, 1844 to 1870, provides a historical background of such scope that its accurate presentation within a single motion picture is almost an unparalleled achievement.

Second attraction on the program is "Checkers," a turf comedy featuring little Jane Withers, Stuart Erwin and Una Merkel. The story concerns a child called "Checkers," whose uncle owns a race horse which breaks its leg but is nursed back to health on the farm.

When the husband wants kids and the wife wants kittens there's more grist for the divorce mills. The children vs. pet situation furnishes the problem for the I Want a Divorce drama broadcast from San Francisco over the Pacific Coast KFI-NBC-Red Network, tonight, between 9:15 and 9:30 p. m.

"Witches Tales"—dramatization of bizarre fiction that frequently makes the listener's hair stand on end and brings that creepy feeling with plenty of thrills, but has been popular throughout the nation for many years, will be heard on KVOE tonight at 7 o'clock. This broadcast is not recommended for younger children, especially at bedtime.

Connie Boswell, popular blues singer; Louis Armstrong, swing orchestra leader; and Jose Turbi, internationally noted conductor and pianist, will form an all-musical group of guest stars on the Kraft Music Hall hour from Hollywood tonight at 7:00 p. m., over the KFI-NBC-Red network.

Bing Crosby will present his guests in informal dramatic scenes and discussions, aided by Bob Burns. The visiting stars also will aid Crosby, John Scott Trotter's orchestra, and the Paul Taylor chorus in presenting a musical program of contrasting selections.

War Problems
Discussed Tonight

By TOM E. DANSON

Political and economic consequences of a Japanese victory in China will be argued by Upton Close, author, journalist and lecturer, and Charles C. Batchelder, diplomat and statesman, before the nationwide audience of America's Town Meeting of the Air, tonight.

Speaking over the KECA-NBC Blue Network, Tom E. Danson from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m., the two men will present the conflicting beliefs that the United States should continue its policy of maintaining a strict neutrality. At the conclusion of their addresses, they will be questioned by members of the audience in New York's Town Hall.

get out last Monday's Journal and check up on a few things... you'll see that Charlie really isn't such a bad looking fellow. Don't miss tomorrow's picture of him. I guarantee that you will get a big kick out of it.

Climaxed by the tolling of London's famous Big Ben, a special New Year's program from London, featuring the traditional Watch Night Service in England, will be heard on KVOE and over the nationwide Mutual network tomorrow afternoon from 3:45 to 4:30, PST.

Watch Night is a religious carol service, customarily conducted throughout Great Britain on New Year's Eve in various churches of the country, leading up to the entrance of the New Year.

At precisely 4:00 to 4:01 p. m., PST—(midnight in London)—Big Ben will chime out the passing of 1937 in Europe, followed by a 30-minute celebration, including descriptions and impressions of the revelry throughout London.

Here is an interesting story about Claude Sweeten, KEHE's musical director. It seems that some years ago, while a student at the Boston Conservatory of Music, young Claude's favorite violin, through a sad mishap, became broken beyond repair. Broken-hearted, Claude went to the shop of a Boston violin maker and learned that by using his ingenuity, and by applying a little time and effort, he could make a new violin. This is the violin which Claude uses on that popular afternoon variety show, "Listen, Ladies!" when called upon to do a solo. Listen at 2 some week day, and hear for yourself what kind of music this popular maestro can produce from a home-made violin.

LOY FILM ON MIDNITE SHOW

An ideal way in which to greet the New Year was suggested today by the management of the West Coast theater, where a gala annual midnight show will be staged tomorrow night. A picture never before screened here will be on the program, which will start at 12 midnight after doors open at 11:45 p. m. Tickets are on sale today and tomorrow.

For the featured attraction an ultra-modern story of a four-sided romance, "Man-Proof," with a stellar cast headed by Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone, Rosaline Russell and Walter Pidgeon, was chosen by Manager George King. Famous for her portrayals as the ideal American wife, Miss Loy now deviates from her usual roles to play a single woman whose man is stolen by a rival.

In lavish settings of metropolitan flavor, Miss Loy appears as a newspaper artist in love with a social climber, Walter Pidgeon. Pidgeon weds an heiress, Rosaline Russell, instead, and they leave on their honeymoon. Franchot Tone, a cartoonist, secretly loves Miss Loy but will not admit it to her. They remain "pals." Miss Loy temporarily forgets her defeat until the honeymooners return, when she renews her siege.

Richly sprinkled with comedy and drama, the new romance is hailed as Miss Loy's topnotch film of the season.

Selected short subjects also will be shown on the bill.

HOLLYWOOD.—Most trials of film musical settings is backstage where the show must go on, and on and on. A picture choosing this setting starts under a handicap it must work hard to overcome. It is to the credit of "You're a Sweetheart" that it entertains and seldom has to work too hard to do it.

The picture, starring Alice Faye with George Murphy, has so much that a musical should have that its total effect is quite pleasant. Hummable tunes, fine settings, good dancing, good special-effects share of freshness in "gags" and situations, and general brightness and good humor characterize the piece.

Universal borrowed its headlines (Miss Faye and Director David Butler from 20th Century-Fox, Murphy from Metro), and injected into the proceedings its own and other borrowed talent—Ken Murray and his radio companion Oswald, Andy Devine, Frank Jenks, Frances Hunt, and Casper Reardon, who does things to a harp.

The final "production number"—a murder trial in swish time—is the smartest of several. Good gags: Andy Devine proving to Oswald that seven times 13 is 28.

MYRNA LOY IN COMEDY
Often film titles are changed for no reason, but "The Four Marys" has become "Man-Proof" for good cause, as a note from Metro explains—"in the final script there weren't any Marys."

Despite this lack, "Man-Proof" unrolls as a smartly diverting comedy of modern manners and morals, a little on the sophisticated side but with plenty of mass appeal.

Myrna Loy loses Walter Pidgeon to Rosaline Russell, but plans to recapture him after their honeymoon. She will be very above-board about it, and as frank as she is in discussing the situation with Nana Bryant, her wise and modern mother, who merely suggests the procedure would be unfortunate. So Myrna gets a job instead, and is convinced she doesn't love Walter any more—until the "beautiful friendship" they all decide upon leads to a revival of the flame. Complications then are both amusing and dramatic, resolved only when Myrna and Franchot Tone, who has been her cold and comfort and lightly cynical counsel, realize what the audience suspects.

ROLES FOR RAILINGS

Placing of the ornamental iron railings at the sides of the post-office steps was delayed one day Wednesday while several workmen were engaged in chiseling holes in the hard granite for anchoring the iron uprights.

and Helen Broderick and an assortment of real and alleged comics in support, the picture has some funny moments and many dull ones. The bright spots spring mainly from Moore and Broderick, with Solly Ward, the hero of the funniest sequences wherein, seeking to hypnotize Ann, he puts Helen Broderick in a coma instead.

ANN'S LAST WITH GENE

"She's Got Everything" marks the final teaming of Ann Sothern and Gene Raymond, the latter now leaving RKO for Paramount where he began. The farewell fling deals with the scheme of a flock of creditors of penniless Annie to snare her a rich husband, naming Raymond, so she'll be able to pay them off. With Victor Moore ed all along—that they're more than fond of each other, despite spats and quarrels.

Richard Thorpe's direction and topnotch performances by the four principals further insure "Man-Proof" against dullness. Scenes of Miss Loy on a polite binge to drown her love sorrow are a comedy highlight.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

By JOHN HIX

HANS ANDERSEN'S LOVE . . .
Strange as it seems, Hans Christian Andersen—father of the “... and they lived happily ever after” type of story—ended every chapter of his first manuscript with a violent death!
As a boy Andersen was very morbid, his father and mother having died while he was quite young. He learned to read in a charity school at 9. His first manuscript, the tragedy, “Abor and Elvira,” was produced four years later.
This strange author, whose writings today are the delight of thousands of children, had an unusually unsuccessful love life. His first sweetheart—Rigborg Voight, sister of a schoolmate—early refused his proposal of marriage in a letter which Andersen carried with him for 45 years, sealed in a small leather sack he wore around his neck.
Louise Collin who, like the fair Rigborg, spurned Andersen when he suggested marriage. The third chapter in Andersen's love drama was the world-famous Jenny Lind, “the Swedish Nightingale.” They struck a fast friendship, and Andersen often was seen strolling with her through the Danish capital.

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Frank H. Spearman, 78, author of "Whispering Smith" and other stories, died of a stomach ailment at a hospital last night.

Using the early history of railroads and the West as a background, Spearman wrote his first novel in 1900, his last in 1934.

Whispering Smith, one of his most popular works, was made into a motion picture in 1915, and again in 1928, starring H. B. Warner.

Surviving are his widow and four sons, Clark, Frank, Jr., Eugene and the Rev. Arthur D. Spearman, S. J., member of the Loyola faculty.

Travel Tour Is Interrupted By Harsh Cops

CHICAGO. (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Richard Eugene Beiger's independently conducted travel tour between California and Wisconsin was somewhat interrupted today by Cook county highway police.

Richard was picked up west of Chicago, lugging a pack of food which, he explained, was practically enough to get him back to his home in Belvidere Gardens, Cal.

The food, he said, came from Mrs. William Davis, matron of the detention home in Racine, Wis., where he spent Christmas.

It was a return visit. A year ago when he ran away he was taken in, so to speak, at Racine.

Richard said Mrs. Davis treated him so nicely he decided to come back. He left home Dec. 10.

Juvenile authorities today pondered how to send him home by some means other than his own travel ticket, his hitch-hiking thumb.

Lower and company, investment securities firm, yesterday announced the expansion of the Santa Ana office and the addition of new facilities for security investment. The office will have the same address in the First National Bank building.

This branch of the firm, established six years ago, has been in charge of Mr. Lester W. DuVall since last July. Rapidly increasing business during recent months has necessitated the expansion move. Associated with Mr. DuVall is Mr. E. T. Platt, and Miss Winona T. Fair acts as secretary of the branch.

William A. Lower and company also maintains offices in Los Angeles, Long Beach, Pasadena, San Bernardino and LaJolla.

You Are Sitting in Judgment

The American people are ending the good year 1937 in an intense concentration on the Far East and its fast-moving history.

Yesterday, through The Journal and other newspapers, they were shown photographs of the U. S. S. Panay sinking into the mud of the Yangtze river bottom after being bombed by Japanese airmen, and of the wounded officers, crew members and passengers. Before many days they will see these events in motion pictures. Already, many Americans have heard a broadcast description as a radio commentator sat in a projection room and previewed these films. All this bespeaks the marvels of present-day communications, when one remembers that this shocking "accident" occurred on the 12th day of this same month.

Millions of Americans have read the long, graphic report of Lieutenant Commander Hughes, who was wounded in the bombing of his ship, and other official navy reports. We all have followed the rapid exchange of diplomatic notes, notes in which the United States firmly demanded explanations, full satisfaction for the damage done and assurances that such atrocities are to cease, notes in which the Japanese government apologized profusely, promised punishment to the men responsible for the attack, full reparations and steps to prevent any recurrence.

Also, we have witnessed the shifty, unrepentant, bellicose attitude of the Japanese military heads in China. As Dorothy Thompson recently wrote, "The aggressive element of the armed forces is criminally irresponsible and reckless." So, while the Tokyo government accepts "full responsibility" for the affair, Miss Thompson rightly asks, "Is the Japanese government in a position to accept such responsibility, and what does it amount to?"

Only time will answer the question. It may be the outburst of indignation caused both in Japan and this country by the Panay sinking will sober the hotheads who are directing the drive into China. Maybe not; maybe we shall have "incident" following "incident." All of which makes for a trying situation at Washington, a crisis difficult to handle. And it makes, as well, for a supreme test of our collective good citizenship. A public opinion is forming as we read these dispatches, reports and notes, and see these pictures. May we see, read, hear, discuss and assimilate in a spirit of fair-mindedness, understanding and decency.

An old-timer is a guy who, reviewing the record of the special session of congress, still thinks that Roosevelt is a dictator.

Parade of 1938

In recent years, due to our strange American passion for phrases, it has been almost habitual to refer to some event or other as being "just around the corner."

The phrase peculiarly fits a metamorphosis that has quite generally taken place in the Republican party. It, the Grand Old Party, has pretty definitely, rounded its corner.

Consider John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman, planning to campaign for votes from "down across the tracks."

Consider Representative Hamilton Fish in congress congratulating a Democratic President on his handling of the Japanese crisis.

Consider Senator Steiwer of Oregon introducing a resolution calling on the state department to report on the number of Americans and the amount of investments in China, and to name the investors.

Consider Congressman-elect Bruce Barton saying, "We ought to recognize frankly that this social revolution is an accomplished fact and quit talking as if when we got into power we were going to turn everything back."

All are Republicans in good standing.

Consider the nomination of Glenn Frank, erstwhile ultra-liberal college president, to head the policy-making body of the national committee.

Consider the aid and comfort given by the Republican party in New York to the candidacy of Fiorello LaGuardia, who is widely known as one who is impatient with "the reactionary policies" of the New Deal.

These and other signs which will doubtless become more and more numerous as the elections of 1938 approach, indicate that the G. O. P. elephant has not only turned one corner but two or three, and has in mind a spectacular parade all of its own.

Based on developments already apparent, it will not be surprising to hear New Deal candidates attacked by their adversaries as "reactionary" and "conservative."

And that, we submit, is a corner-turning in American politics.

If Alcatraz is really escapable every scenario writer in Hollywood automatically has a new plot idea.

An Alfalfa Eureka

Dr. Victor Heiser, doctor-author, is quoted in the newspapers as saying, "I would be pleased if American chefs and dietists would make an alfalfa salad in some palatable form."

It's very simple, Doctor, really. You take a large pail of finely-chopped alfalfa. When that is ready, have a real good cook prepare an extra large portion of crab Louis.

Next conceal one tiny sprig of alfalfa in the crab Louis eat the crab Louis at your usual speed, and then take the pail of alfalfa out and sprinkle it around the roots of your favorite rose bush.

Not much sign of business recession in the shopping district these days!

FAIR Enough

Here's Subsidy
That Press
Enjoys

By Westbrook
Pegler

A few weeks ago Jim Farley said that if he had a message for the nation he would prefer to send it by radio, as the papers would edit out all the raisins if he gave it to them. Some time earlier he had made a radio speech in which he denounced a time-honored subsidy of the newspaper and magazine business, and he was so because that message was widely ignored by the daily press.

Now, for a fact, the second class postage subsidy of the press is such an old story that some editors may have hung it on the dead hook on the ground that its news value had long ago expired, but the omission of Jim's remarks did give support to his claim that the papers silence copy which is inimical to their own interests.

The post office department claims that in the last 10 years alone, to say nothing of all the years since the special postal rates were established in 1851, the newspaper and periodical press has enjoyed a camouflaged subsidy of more than $1,000,000,000.

This sum represents the difference between the postage paid for handling papers and magazines and the actual cost of providing this service. The breakdown, as the statisticians call figure analysis, may be disputed by the defense, but that is the post office department's story and has been for many years.

FUNNY PAPER STAMPS
Jim raised the first-class postage rate and horn-swinged a few, odd millions out of the nine million stamp collectors in the U. S. A. by turning out so many special memorial issues that the printing and engraving staffs began to think they were working for a funny paper. He also raised the rate for the advertising content of second-class matter, but it was reduced to the old figures after two years, whereas the first-class rate is still up there.

And it is the contention of the post office in its published figures that the press of the country, meaning magazines as well as papers, enjoys a government subsidy in the form of insufficient postal rates while it hollers calamity about the subsidies to other industries and scolds successive postmasters general for failing to break even. The post office claims that the press pays 20 cents for a dollar's worth of postal service, and some of the publishers claim that it is the subscriber who gets the subsidy, as he would have to pay more for his reading and advertising matter if the rate were raised.

That was the proposition when the privilege was established in 1851. The country was sparsely settled, and the statesmen thought the people deserved reading lessons even at the cost of a little deficit. Under some conditions, to this very day, census publications are carried and delivered absolutely free within the county of publication, but that privilege, though wrong, is a small matter, accounting for only $8,000,000 a year of the deficiency on press matter.

HERE'S THE DIFFERENCE
The argument occurs at the point where the post office claims to handle press matter as first-class mail for the second-class rate. First-class matter pays 48 cents a pound and second-class pays a variety of rates up to 7 cents a pound for advertising content.

Newspaper people insist that a magazine or paper receives more leisurely and less careful treatment than first-class letters, but there seems to be no disposition on the part of the press to demand equal treatment at the much cheaper rate. The magazines apparently get the benefit from the daily or Sunday papers, however, because they do a great mail subscription business, whereas the papers, what with street sales, route carriers and truck delivery, have come to avoid the mails as being too slow.

At any rate, here is the message which Mr. Farley wanted to get over to the nation and though he couldn't convey through the press—that the press, which in many cases is very righteous about subsidies and in most cases is very ticklish about its freedom, not only enjoys an important government subsidy and refuses to agitate the matter with the taxpayers but compromises its independence by accepting a very valuable favor from the government.

And if the department's figures are correct, then the amount which might be gained by taxing the exempt salaries of public officials and employees is very paltry picking by comparison. Now we will see whether Mr. Farley's message gets past the perfunctory conspiracy of silence. If you don't see this, let me know.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 30, 1912
Frank M. Ryan, president of the iron workers union, was given a seven-year sentence by Judge Anderson today for complicity in the McNamara dynamiting plots, while 37 other labor leaders convicted Saturday were sentenced to lesser terms. Motions for new trials of the 38 convicted men were overruled by the court just before sentences were passed.

The proposed new Santa Ana city charter was repudiated by a vote of 475 to 1797 at the special election Saturday. The charter failed to make a showing in each of the 10 precincts.

ANAHEIM—This year's tomato crop for the Anaheim, Fullerton and Placentia districts will be approximately $125,000, it was estimated today. This includes $75,000 worth of tomato shipments directly to the east and $50,000 consumed locally or sent to California canneries.

NEW YORK—Men and women garment workers estimated at 125,000 struck here today, tying up approximately 4000 factories. They demand higher pay and better working conditions. Although picket lines have been posted at all factories, there has been no violence.

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

I was just reading where this country is one of the biggest exporters in the world but still we have 'ta depend upon foreign ships to carry our goods. If them foreign countries ever get mad at us and refuse us transportation, we would find ourselves in a fix that my uncle was with his hardware store down home.

One day a big game hunter come through town and he dropped in at my uncle's store and said "I want fifty cases of ammunition. I usually deal with the eastern distributors but I would like to give you the business if you can handle it." My uncle says "Why sure—I can take care of you." The hunter says "Well, send the fifty cases to Nigeria in Africa."

My uncle says "Well, mister in that case, maybe you'd better order it from the East—all we've got here is a small boy and a bicycle."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

New Deal plans big radio campaign to push aims; shuns press; claims papers distort New Deal speeches, show too much bias; Washington diplomats give Anne Corio, strip teaser, a whirl; plan afoot to make Lehman senator, Wagner New York governor.

WASHINGTON—It is no accident that a battery of typewriters are now pounding out the greatest deluge of New Deal speeches since the campaign of 1936. It is all a part of the Roosevelt policy of assuming the offensive.

If you don't believe this cast your eye down the following list of radio addresses (the first two already delivered) which form a part of this barrage. Every one of them, it is important to note, are national radio hook-ups:

Dec. 23—Senator Green of Rhode Island.

Dec. 26—Robert Jackson, assistant attorney general.

Dec. 30—Secretary Ickes (in one of his hottest messages to congress, "Will be delivered in person over national hook-up and will demand wages-hours act).

Jan. 8—Roosevelt's Jackson day dinner speech.

Jan. 10—Maurice Maverick, fighting congressman from Texas.

Jan. 13—Senator Bob La Follette.

Jan. 30—Marriner Eccles, chairman federal reserve board.

In addition to the above, New Deal strategists are planning an average of two radio speeches every week during the duration of congress.

RADIO VS. NEWSPAPER
It is no accident, furthermore, that this campaign is built entirely around radio. Furthermore it was no accident that Roosevelt last week unleashed his blast against a large percentage of the press.

Whether wise or not, this is all part of the new and deliberate policy to slam the newspapers. It has been laid down as the rule in the inner council, that no important New Deal speech is to be made except over the widest possible network.

In addition to the press campaign, however, is not going to stop there. The President is planning to push legislation prohibiting any newspaper from also owning a radio station. He is even considering a radio speech denouncing distortion of news, alleged fear psychology and the monopoly of news dissemination.

Note—One reason behind the edict that no important speeches shall be made unless broadcast was a speech by Marriner Eccles in Chicago last fall. In it Eccles pooh-poohed the idea of extensive radio revision. Eccles claims that the papers picked up one small item from his speech critical to labor, played this up and let his entire discourse on taxes go almost unnoticed.

DIPLOMATIC STRIP TEASER
Most popular young lady with the Washington diplomatic corps is Anne Corio, strip teaser at the local burlesque show.

On the stage, Miss Corio is reputed to draw $1000 weekly. But off-stage her chief appeal is a demure naturalness. No one would suspect her of being a strip teaser.

The other evening a young man about-town telephoned Miss Corio to invite her to dinner.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but I'm dining with Prince del Drago tonight." (Del Drago is Prince of Antuni and No. 2 man in the Italian embassy.)

"Well, how about tomorrow night?"

"Oh, I'm dining with Kippy Schell tomorrow night." (Baron Schell is secretary of the Hungarian legation, called "Kippy" because he once was a kipped herding salesman.)

"All right, then the evening after that?"

"Oh, you're so sweet, but the next night I'm dining with the minister of Albania." (Falk Konitz, minister of Albania, is famous for having the most delectable dinners in Washington.)

The young man was so irate that he called up Miss Corio's manager and complained that she was giving him the run-around. However, he confirmed the fact that she had all of the above engagements.

CZECH TERMITE

Termites have been ravaging Washington buildings and will cost the Czechoslovak government $35,000 in repairs to its legation here. The minister, Vladimir Hurban, first became aware of the insect attack when a guest pushed his hand through a wall. Termites had eaten around all the walls of the first floor and left little except the paint.

The minister's family had to move to an adjoining hotel while the work went forward. Someone who felt sorry for the madame under the circumstances said to the minister, "How does your wife like America?"

The minister replied, "She likes it fine."

She happens to be a native American.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Washington's number one toy train enthusiast is no child, but adult Hugh G. Boutell of the bureau of standards. The Colombian minister in Washington, Don Miguel Lopez, has a Siamese cat for a pet. Washington stands high in magazine reading—taking magazines generally; but it stands low in cultural magazine reading.

Among unemployment census returns there appeared a card reading, "I have a job, but I don't like it very well, and if you have anything better to offer, please tell me."

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Prof. E. W. Brown of Yale spent 20 years computing the motions of the moon.

This year a computing machine did the whole 20 years' work in one year.

In so doing the machine turned up an incredible fact. There were no errors in Professor Brown's 20 years' "figgering." Not only no important errors—for that fact was already known—but no teeny ones either.

When Professor Brown made his computations they were, so to

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent expression of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

Jews and Gentiles

To the Editor: Will you please give me space to answer a man who I have seen attack Joseph at least twice of late. It is the same old story of some people attacking what they think are the Jews, but Joseph was not what you call a Jew; he was a Hebrew.

Why should my friend kick? Joseph was not a saviour, but it says in 45:7, "and God sent me before you to preserve you a posterity in the earth, and to save your lives by a great deliverance." v. 8, "So now it was not you that sent me hither, but God; and he hath made me a father to pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt."

So I find it was God's plan for the people to have Joseph as a ruler of the land not only this, but I find that he told some of his jail partners the dream and it came true, and I find that he had a chance to defy himself with another man's wife but did not. I find that this woman misrepresented the case as to Joseph and this man is misrepresenting Joseph as the woman did, and I find that the king made Joseph ruler of all Egypt. Why? Because he found that God was with him, then he told the king his dream and it came true as he said. And they laid up in store in the fat years for the lean years and the people did not starve although they exhausted their cash, then mortgaged their land and chattels. Well, the people now do worse. They mortgage their homes and land for non-essentials. But, of course, it is all okay, for it is us, not them. Well, it is the same today as in the past. I hear some people grumbling much because our F. D. R. they say has a lot of Jews in the government, but I notice that the people now have not starved, but they now are as they were in Egypt. They have something to eat and wear and lots of new autos and radios and such likes, but, as then, they are not satisfied because it is the Jews or some of them are at the head of our government and as those of the past, I hear because there are some Hebrews in the deal. Well, it is the same as before. When they had the Hebrews at the head ruling the economics things went well. It was the same, when the four Hebrews were at the head in Babylon things went all okay. But there were some that objected because they were Hebrews in the ruling, and it's the same old story now for some to grumble no matter how good a Jew may rule or be he is had any way on general principles with some.

But these same people are depending on a Jew for a saviour when they die, and they say there is no other way to be saved. If that is so, he was a Jew. All acknowledged that. But I am rather peculiar. I rather believe what He said, for He said we know what we worship for salvation is of the Jews.

My friend condemns what God says, or what he calls the Jewish Bible, but then he recommends what Jesus said as to labor. Well, he was not speaking of himself at all, but he was speaking of a tightwad that paid a penny a day, and he was unfair for he paid a man for an hour the same as he that worked for 5 or 6 hours. If he had had a labor union then as now, they would not have had to work for a penny. So you see the laboring man has got wised up a bit on the tightwad penny men, and if they had not, today they would have been working today for a penny.

As for Christ, He was not a Christian at all, and was not born on Dec. 25. He did not raise from the dead in March nor April as you Gentiles teach, as the Jews did not crucify him, as you teach, but the Gentiles did. He said they would in Matt. 20:17 to 19 and Mark 10:33 to 34 and Luke 18:31 to 33 and John 18:31.

Mr. F. D. R. and his Jewish friends represent the Jews and Mr. Hoover and his friends, the Gentiles. Which do you like best? You have had them both.

LIKES LUDENDORFF, JACKSON

To the Editor: Correction to your story in your paper of Dec. 27: General Ludendorff of Germany, a great and honest fighter for justice as he saw it, will linger in the memory of the German people forever, no matter what a hateful Communist controlled press in America thinks.

Besides, Mr. Editor, a very happy New Year to Sheriff L. Jackson and "nuts" to The Journal.

AN AMERICAN.

PRINCETON MEN

Girls at Vassar have just announced that they think Princeton men are a combination of Adonis, Tarzan and Socrates. All this leaves for the traditional great lovers of Yale is Don Juan, Clark Gable and Prof. Einstein.

They were discussing ingenuity in modern advertising and I could not help but recall the farmer in our town who drove in with apples in the fall—a sample apple stuck up on a pole in the whip socket.

Judge Stump

Dear Judge: Did it ever happen at any family's Christmas dinner that the rest of the folks left anything but the tail of the goose for us kids? OLIVER M. (age 11.)

No, little Oliver, folks aren't very thoughtful that way. But don't worry. Things aren't so tough in the end.

NEW YORK—Many enthusiasts for O. Henry stories living in the neighborhood of Irving Place drop into the saloon where he often hung out. His "Gifts of the Magi" from the New York World still adorns the wall. But there is little of the atmosphere one might expect.

No ancient card table, ringed with many glasses, nor free bowls of pretzels and pop corn and little glass hoodlums filled with these vices, but a host of orange-cloves, coffee and bits of orange peel. The bartender is sophisticated and without a lion tamer's roach and Montana diamond tie pin.

Also the proprietor seemed unlike the fabled O. Henry hosts, but rather glum and unsmiling. Journalists know the bar largely because of its famous toposot, a fellow on one of the high-brow magazines. He stands nightly drinking Scotch and soda, one after another, until the place closes.

The bartender declared the number of his drinks varied little. Usually 25. You could light a cigar on his face and he stood practically in one spot with one pose. He relived days that were gone and wanted no intrusion upon his world of yesterday.

Mark Hellinger, in relaxing moments, is reputedly able to buck more brandies and walk out cold sober than any visitor to the local bodegas. But he is a hard worker and seldom gives cognac a play. Another record brandy drinker is the days of Tex Guinan was Bill Boyd, the stage actor. In the mood he would set at a table alone and polish off a quart between after theater and sunup. In such a dolor he wanted no companions.

The musty statue of Puck over the entrance of the gloomy building once housing the magazine on Lafayette street has been brightened with a coat of gilt. Puck was once the New Yorker of its day, attracting the crack wits and artists of the period. Many now famous started in its pages.

There is no longer an open house for artists and writers, arrived or on the way up, such as the Sunday night rendezvous at the Fred Dayton's in the purlieus of Washington Square about 20 years ago. Dayton was an advertising executive and still is the Conde Nash outfit. Every Sunday evening writers and artists went to the Dayton's for a buffet frolic supper with free drinks for those desiring them. Afterward guests sat around and talked. Perhaps Charlie Towne or Berton Braley would recite an original poem, maybe a whimsical tale by shy Oliver Herford or a new anagram game by Carolyn Wells. Everything was impromptu. The Dayton's had no axe to grind. They merely liked artists and writers and enjoyed having them around.

Types: In most exclusive hotel dining rooms, usually the lowly you see walking deck on liners so avidly. Tall, mustached and the white shirt of his dinner jacket suggesting a concertina played by the mad King of Bavaria. He eats alone near the entrance, watching with frank gaze all who enter. His dishes are only ordered after careful thought and discussion with a cap-tain. His drink is a single Scotch and soda with his dinner and afterward he sits smoking a cigar until waiters begin piling up tables. A Lonely Heart prospect!

The golden wedding celebration of the James Lord Pratts at Essex, Ct., recently proved the village smith still stands. Pratt at the age of 77 and still active is the ninth generation of village blacksmiths and the oldest business in one family ownership in America. The town turned out, providing the biggest day in the history of the place since the British burned it down in the year of 1812.

Thingumbobs: Marie Dressler was reputedly advised to go to Hollywood to look for a job by Myra Kingsley, the astrologist. Earl Carroll is to reverse the usual process by opening shows on the coast and bringing them to Broadway by easy stages.

They were discussing ingenuity in modern advertising and I could not help but recall the farmer in our town who drove in with apples in the fall—a sample apple stuck up on a pole in the whip socket.
